Report Revolt in Italy

ATHENS, Dec. 7 (INS)—Serious internal disturbances, bordering on revolt, have occurred in Milan, Florence and Trieste as a result of Field Marshal Pietro Badoglio's resignation and the failure of the Greek campaign, according to reports received here today. A number of persons were reported to have been killed and injured as a result of riots in Trieste. The disturbances there were said to have developed into clashes between a large crowd of demonstrators protesting against the war in Greece and against the Blackshirt regime in Italy. F. D. PLEDGES AID TO GREECE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) —President Roosevelt has assured King George of Greece that his nation can look for assistance—expected to be in the form of planes and other military supplies—from the United States in its war against Italy.

This became known today when the State Department made public an exchange of messages between the heads of the two governments.

Replying to a message from King George II expressing his country's appreciation for Red Cross help already given by the United States, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"As Your Majesty knows, it is the settled policy of the United States Government to extend aid to those governments and peoples who defend themselves against aggression.

"I assure Your Majesty that steps are being taken to extend such aid to Greece which is defending itself so valiantly."

SAYS PLANES OFFERED

An official of the Greek legation said the United States had offered his country "any kind of help it wants," including warplanes, for its war against Italy.

He spoke after the State Department had made public messages between President Roosevelt and King George II.

The Greek legations official specified only planes in discussing with reporters the type of aid that might be forthcoming. He stressed, however, that his country had been given the opportunity to purchase whatever available war supplies it might need.

In other quarters it was learned that the Greeks were chiefly concerned with buying materials that are immediately available, and were not interested at the moment in placing orders for munitions that might require months to deliver.

Mr. Roosevelt did not say what form this would take, but he did mention that the Red Cross already had sent "substantial amounts of funds and supplies for the relief of suffering in Greece.

MAY SEND WAR SUPPLIES

It was known, however, that officials were studying the question of whether military supplies could be spared without reducing amounts being provided Greece's Ally, Great Britain. Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State, announced recently that Greece had appealed for aid through the American Legation in Athens and the Greek minister in Washington.

Welles said the Greeks had asked permission to purchase certain

2d Italian General Resigns Command In Sensational Rift

General Ettore Bastico, 64-year-old commander of the motorized army of the Po, and veteran of the Fascist Blackshirts, was chosen by Mussolini to replace the 56-year-old count, who had been civil and military governor of the Aegean Islands since November, 1936.

International News Service reports from London that an Exchange Telegraph (British) dispatch from Zurich, Switzerland, declared that 40 Italian staff officers were ousted with Field Marshal Pietro Badoglio. Exchange Telegraph said that "further important changes are expected."—Editor's note.

Nothing was published in Rome on Dr. Vecchi's resignation beyond this communique:

"By Royal decree which is to be signed, Brig. Gen. Cesare Maria De Vecchi Conte Di Val Cismon is giving up at his request the duty of commander of the forces of the Aegean and that of governor. By Royal decree, likewise to be signed, Ettore Bastico, general of the army, for war merits, has been named governor of the Dodecanese and commander of those armed forces."

(This resignation followed that yesterday of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staff, who also stepped out with the phrase "on his own request.")

HAS HELD MANY POSTS

De Vecchi, one of Mussolini's closest lieutenants, has held many posts of trust since, as a member of Il Duce's quadrumvir, he helped lead the march on Rome in 1922. Only one other of the quadrumvir—General Emilio de Bono—is still a collaborator of Mussolini. He is inspector-general of the Italian forces overseas. The other two, Italo Balbo and Michele Bianchi, are dead.

BRITISH WARSHIP HUNTS FOR RAIDER

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 7 (INS)—Uruguayan naval circles today reported the 30,600-ton British battleship warspite was speeding northward in search of the German sea raider that engaged in a naval battle with the British auxiliary cruiser Carnarvon Castle 700 miles northeast of here on Thursday.

While virtually the entire British South Atlantic squadron searched for the raider, the Carnarvon Castle, which was damaged in the exchange of naval gunfire with the German ship, steamed slowly toward montevideo with a number of casualties aboard.

It was due to reach the harbor late this afternoon.

The captain of a Uruguyan patrol ship which returned to port said the Carnarvon Castle appeared to have suffered considerable exterior damage. It was proceeding at less than half speed.

Reports that a battle might occur in the same locale in which the raider Graf Spee met her doom almost a year ago arose after details were disclosed of the skirmish between the Carnarvon Castle and the German raider.

Albania Base Afire As Italians Flee City

ATHENS, Dec. 7 (AP)—Italian forces were reported today to have abandoned Argirocastro, leaving parts of the inland Albanian base in flames. Dispatches from the front said Greek troops, advancing on Argirocastro from several directions, had established contact preparatory to occupation.

The road between Porto Edda and Delvino and the road south of Argirocastro already are occupied by Greek forces, it was said. The high command announced yesterday that Porto Edda, 15 miles southwest of Argirocastro and the main sea gateway to supply the Italians, had fallen.

Dispatches from the front said at least 3000 prisoners were captured yesterday, along with more than 100 howitzers.

The howitzer was one of the Italians' principal weapons in the attempt to invade Greece which the Greeks turned into a counter-invasion of Italian-held Albania.

Greek units were reported advancing from Porto Edda with a new battlecry—"Tirana by Christmas!" Tirana is the Albanian capital.

Greek troops were reported striking full force at Italians retreating across the last mountain ridges toward the Albanian foothill strongholds of Chimara, Tepelini and Elbasani.

A government spokesman declared today that Greek advance units were pushing steadily beyond smoldering Porto Edda in fighting contact with the Italian rear guard which sought to cover the Fascist withdrawal up to the coastal road to Chimara, 20 miles north.

The Greeks made no immediate claim of capturing Argirocastro, but indicated that its fall was expected hourly.

Yule Ship Gifts Pour In

N. E. Fills More Than 300 Cases

By JAMES DOOLING

Proudly, the Hearst newspapers in New England announce today that with still one week to go, gifts from the open-hearted and generous people of these six states have filled more than 300 cases for a CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR ENGLAND.

Willing volunteers for the hard task of sorting, listing and packing these cases worked at it well into the night, spurred on by the same spirit that has kept donations pouring into Christmas Ship headquarters since the first appeal was made two weeks ago tomorrow.

The pride with which the announcement is made of the goal reached today is not for the newspapers which sponsored the movement, but for the men, women and children who made it possible.

There is no whit of exaggeration in saying that the response has come from communities as far north as the Canadian line and as far south as New York state line.

How many more cases will be filled in the last week for the homeless civilians of Hitler's bombing raids in Britain is too much for a guess at this moment. There are still so many agencies to be heard from that any estimate would fall far short.

But everything received is direly needed.

Far and away, thanks to the Christmas spirit which has prompted so many donations, the majority of the garments and shoes now packed are brand new.

CLOTHES LOOK NEW

Those garments which have been used are hard to tell from new. Cleansed, pressed, and in the best of repair, this balance of the gifts in the overseas' cases will bring cheer and hope to their recipients.

Just taking an ordinary day headquarters for A CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR ENGLAND can report

Clothing Firms Join in Gifts For Yule Ship

Moved by the plight of civilian England, officials of 17 clothing firms got together and contributed 14 cases of brand new clothing for the Christmas Ship to England.

There were many useful articles of clothing, including raincoats and suits, in the contribution effected through the courtesy of Fred Monosson, president of the New England Clothing & Rainwear Mfg. Co., and Rep. Charles Kaplan, Ward 14.

Both men spent many hours contacting the firms, officials of which responded at once to the plea. Here are the firms:

CARDINAL DENOUNCES WAR HYSTERIA, PRAYS FOR PEACE

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Denouncing "exalted hysteria" of propagandists seeking to get this nation into war, Cardinal O'Connell called today for American support of a peace "based on justice" instead of on the "power politics of Europe."

In an interview on the eve of his 81st birthday, the Cardinal said, in part:

"Notwithstanding the too prevalent propaganda from all sides, the hope and prayer of the American people today is that we shall be spared the horrors of war.

"They have taken for granted that the authorities at Washington meant what they said when they promised to keep us out of the war.

"Not only should we keep out of the war, but we might well be turning our thoughts toward a speedy and permanent peace."

It is hard for him to understand "why some of these propagandists for war are allowed to cry down the normal wish of the American people for peace," the Cardinal said.

RAISING LOUD VOICES

"There are certain expatriates," he continued, "raising their voices in loud accent—I think you know whom I mean—with the preposterous proposition that America sink her individuality and become a sort of tail-end of a foreign empire.

"If this is not an example of an exalted hysteria, I do not know what it could be."

Asked what sort of peace the world should work for, the cardinal said:

"You can't have permanent peace without justice. That was the trouble with the Versailles treaty. It was not just.

Power politics in Europe is not a basis of justice. It is a basis of imperialism, which is the cause of all their trouble."

He said that by following the principles of justice, brotherly love and religions, this country can not only maintain its own defenses but can also contribute to the maintenance of "an oasis of peace" to which warring nations can look for example after dropping their arms.

MANY TOO RICH

In his long life, he has seen "a great deal of abounding prosperity," the Cardinal said. He added that he has observed "a great many people too rich."

He continued:

"I think now that everybody realizes that in the future quite another condition is to be expected. The trend is away from enormous individual wealth, and therefore I think the wise thing for the American people to do is to prepare for that change which has come even now.

"Let them cultivate a sober, simple life and find their hap-

Two Die in Crash Of Training Planes

RANTOUL, Ill., Dec. 7 (INS)—Army authorities at Chanute Field announced today that an Army plane which took off from the field on a routine night training flight last night crashed near Campbellsburg, Ky.

Second Lieut. Gordon V. Kilmer of Flint, Mich., the pilot, and Staff Sergt. Owen E. Cecil were killed, the unconfirmed report received at Chanute Field stated.

The plane was a P-6 low wing single-engine monoplane.

U. S. URGED TO RISK WAR IN BRITISH AID

All possible United States aid to Britain "at risk of war" was urged today by Prof. William Y. Elliott of Harvard.

In an address prepared for a faculty symposium in conjunction with a Harvard Alumni Association gathering, Elliott advocated sending American ship convoys to Ireland.

He also suggested a U. S. warning to Japan that she'll have a fight with this nation on her hands if she attacks Singapore or the Dutch East Indies.

Other pleas for unrestricted aid to England were voiced by Prof Samuel H. Cross and Associate Prof. Bruce C. Hopper.

Cross said:

"It is our duty so to conduct ourselves by rendering unlimited assistance in aircraft, tonnage and munitions—yes and even in naval and aerial manpower, if we must—that we help vitally in destroying the Nazi menace."

Hooper urged that the United States move "closer and closer to Britain" and that this nation wage a diplomatic offensive in the Far East "to contain Japan and free Russia for operations against the Nazis when the time comes."

ELLIOTT'S VIEWS

Prof. Elliott said in part:

"The simple test for right action by the United States means all possible aid to Britain—all possible aid and more aid than we now think is possible, because time is the essence of this matter.

"It does not mean all aid to Britain within the limits of the present neutrality act, and it does not mean all aid to Britain short of war.

"It means that this country must make the decision on all aid to Britain at the risk of war rather than face a future in which we alone would bear the perpetual risk of war.

"This does not mean the need for an immediate declaration of war. The way to save democracy at home is to act firmly and with conviction."

Elliott said Japan can be prevented from entering the war as an active Axis partner if the United States issues "a flat and clear warning that we will fight if she attacks Singapore or the Dutch East Indies."

"On the other front," he continued, "I suggest that rather than temporize by swapping destroyers and cruisers and airplanes with England, we should frankly accept the necessity of extending our present safety zone as far as neutral Ireland.

WOULD CONVOY TO IRELAND

"Why not extend the Monroe Doctrine to Ireland and send convoy ships that far? I think the British can take care of them the rest of the way."

He said such a move would change Turkey's attitude, "stiffen the opposition" of Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Spain to Hitler and decide French General Weygand on "which way to jump."

Elliott also urged that the United States "underwrite England's war efforts by mobilizing her assets and accepting an economic partnership in the resources of that empire."

He advocated immediate U. S. action to "kick out every Nazi and every Fascist consul in the country."

Gillis' Brother Again Promoted

Another shake-up in Revere's police department by outgoing Mayor Lawrence J. Gillis today saw appointment of the mayor's brother, Sergt. William Gillis, to head the traffic department.

Gillis, appointed a sergeant last week, replaces Sergt. James Dooley, who headed the traffic department only one week and now is assigned to station night duty.

Sergt. Daniel Sullivan was transferred from street night duty to street day duty, and Sergt. Harry McKinley from the station nights to street duty nights.

piness in simplicity, not in the futile perplexities of barren luxuries."

In times of stress and strain, such as war, people naturally are nervous, the Cardinal said.

"Instead of thinking quietly," he pointed out, "they jump around from one thing to another, adding to their fatigue and hysteria.

"We see that in the night clubs, in this hysterical dancing, in this raucous, vulgar shouting of lascivious songs over the radio."

"But what people really need is the quiet of home, family, friends and the church."

"Can you imagine anything more insane than to recommend jitterbug dancing for the children in our schools. They are already highstrung.

"I could hardly believe it when I read in the newspapers of a man in high public life recommending this sort of dance foolishness."

SEES CHANGES FOR BETTER

The Cardinal said he feels most of the many changes he has seen in American life have been for the better. He continued:

"It is quite gratifying to see a more gentle and kindly feeling among our neighbors now, compared with 70 years ago, a closer collaboration among the various racial and religious groups—one of the great things which has placed America foremost among the nations of the world.

"The people are becoming more united and more sincere and are making life in American better for all in the sense of a wider friendliness. The hostile conditions that came here from Europe many years ago are now no longer present.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

The Cardinal referred to the war in Europe as "a terrible tragedy dragging along with pitiful results on all sides."

"I am not going into the cause or causes of this war," he said. "I hope and pray—and this is also the hope and prayer of most Americans—that we be spared these horrors."

Boston American Editorial Wins Praise of Cardinal

Commenting on what he called the "beautiful and consoling" attitude of the press of Boston toward religion, Cardinal O'Connell today singled out a Boston Evening American editorial for special praise.

"Only the other afternoon," he said, "I read an editorial in the Boston American which brings out the point I want to make clear.

"It was an editorial based on peace and it was one of the most beautiful things I have read in my many years as a priest. To read this type of an editorial in a newspaper gave me great consolation, revealing the real expressions and attitude of the press toward all religions.

"I only wish every true Christian could have the opportunity of reading it . . . it really would do considerable good towards the end we seek . . . that of peace!"

The American editorial will be reprinted in next week's Pilot, the Cardinal said.

(The editorial originally appeared in the Boston Evening American, Wednesday, Dec. 4.)

Maine Firms to Supply Snowshoes to Army

The government today ordered 5544 pairs of snowshoes from two Norway, Me., firms for units of the regular Army.

The War Department announced contracts were awarded to Snowcraft, Inc., for 2772 pairs, 12 by 48 inches, at $5 a pair, and 2172 pairs, 14 by 48 inches, at $5.50 a pair.

Sag-No-More Shoe Co. was awarded a contract for 600 pairs, 14 by 48 inches, at $5.36 a pair.

SENATORS BATTLE LOAN TO BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (INS)—The question of granting increased American war aid to Great Britain became a red-hot issue in Washington today amid a series of developments that foreshadowed a bitter fight in Congress and a new definition of the United States financial policy toward England.

1—Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau made arrangements to confer again with British undersecretary of the treasury, Sir Frederick Phillips, Monday.

2—Prominent members of the Senate, both Democrat and Republican, began attacking use of the Administration's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to aid South American nations that are helping Britain.

3—President Roosevelt, it is learned, may ask the Congress convening Jan. 3 to re-define America's financial policy toward the British Empire.

4—A State Department official warned that the United States cannot stand idly by and allow England's dollar resources to become "progressively exhausted."

5—Several South American countries, including Chile, were seeking new loans from the United States.

CHILE'S PLIGHT REVEALED

Chile's request was presented to Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles by Oscar Schancke, Chilean minister of development. Schancke reported that a bad exchange situation, or a shortage of American dollars, existed in his nation, and that an Import-Export Bank loan from the U. S. was needed.

The plea of Chile followed the action of the United States in making $100,000,000 available to Argentina, half of it from credits furnished from the Treasury's stabilization fund.

An Administration official said that the Argentina transaction was made with a distinct understanding that Argentina extend England $160,000,000 in credits to buy badly needed foodstuffs.

The Administration, it was further reported, would be sympathetic toward similar, unofficial tripartite moves.

But the use of the stabilization fund in that manner was bitterly attacked on Capitol Hill by Sen. Clark (D.) of Missouri, a member of the Senate finance committee.

SENATORS FIGHT MOVE

Clark made it clear that he was not saying whether the Argentina loan should have been made. He said that it may have been "desirable and necessary, but it should have been submitted to Congress for approval."

Sen. Herring (D.) of Iowa, also a member of the finance committee, made the cryptic comment that "you make enemies by lending money."

Sen. Adams (D.) of Colorado charged:

"In my opinion it (the Argentina loan) is a violation of the use of the stabili ation account. I always understood it was to be for what its name implies—stabilization of currencies, rather than loans."

Sen. Danaher (R.) of Connecticut, declared:

"I think we ought to find out the facts regarding this before we continue Sec. Morgenthau's authority to play with this $2,000,000,000 fund."

America first senators, through Sen. Nye (R.) of North Dakota, served notice they would stage a last-ditch fight against any loans to England. Nye charged that loans would be followed by the United States convoying ships to England and ultimately would lead to war.

Officer Held as Prison Camp Fugitive Posing as Brother

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Dec. 7 (AP)—White-haired Thomas H. Sapp, veteran of this East Tennessee town's police force, sat in a jail cell today, charged with escaping from a Texas prison camp and masquerading as his dead brother for the past 10 years.

Police Chief Tom Carriger, describing Sapp as "a straight shooter ever since he's been on the force," said the 55-year-old officer walked away from the prison camp in 1930 and soon afterwards became a sheriff's deputy here. He subsequently joined the Johnson City police force.

Carriger said Sapp was sentenced to 99 years' imprisonment as Emory E. Sapp in 1919 for complicity in the slaying of his first wife five years before.

Sapp was arrested yesterday on federal indictments charging him with making false claims to the Veterans Administration to collect a pension in the name of his dead brother, and with using the mails to defraud.

Married again and the father of three children, Sapp readily admitted his identity as Emory E. Sapp and expressed willingness to return to Texas and "face the music" with the hope that his "good reputation" here would help him, Carriger declared.

FEARS DESTITUTION

The police chief said Sapp, who asked officers to "raffle off my gun to help keep my wife and babies off sufferance," told him the death of his first wife was accidental and that he was "railroaded to the penitentiary for life."

Chief E. A. Scrie of the Bureau of Identification at the Huntsville, Tex., prison requested authorities here to hold Sapp for extradition.

Police Captain Cad Shoun said Sapp's masquerade was exposed as a result of his collecting a Spanish-American War veteran's pension of $60 a month under his brother's name.

Washington officials were unsuspecting until Thomas H. Sapp's widow in Texas filed a claim for a widow's pension.

This led government agents to investigate, Shoun said, and revealed the Johnson City policeman as Emory E. Sapp, the escaped convict.

Sapp's wife said she had no idea her husband was wanted in Texas as he had not told her of his prison background.

DEVOTED HUBSAND

"Tom told me he had been a Texas Ranger and had been in some trouble but that he was innocent," she said, adding she did not know he had been married before and was accused of implication in the slaying of his first wife.

"Tom was a devoted husband and was crazy about the children," she said. "I still love him and will stick by him."

Texas officers are expected here next week to return Sapp to the Huntsville prison.

Victims Identify Allston Hugger

Identified, according to police, by two women victims, a 25-year-old Allston man was seized today and held for questioning in connection with a series of attempted attacks.

The suspect was picked up on a description furnished by Mrs. Helen Battino, 32, of Commonwealth ave., Allston.

She said the man followed her into her apartment house and molested her. She screamed and he fled, according to her story.

The second alleged identification was by Mrs. Helen Logan, 30, of Commonwealth ave., Allston. She said the man attempted to get into her auto as she was parking it behind her home.

Warn Motorists Of Road Perils

Both the Boston weather bureau and the State police have issued warnings to motorists to avoid long trips over the week-end—stay home and read their Sunday newspaper. (The Sunday Advertiser preferably.)

The bureau anticipates freezing rain, bringing treacherous highway conditions to portions of northern New Hampshire and Vermont tonight.

State Police in Sidney, N. Y., sent out a warning to Massachusetts police that an emergency road report stated it was raining and freezing all through the south central portions of the State.

Traveling was called impossible and Massachusetts State Police were asked to warn motorists not to attempt to drive to New York.

COAST FLU EPIDEMIC MOVING EASTWARD

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7 (INS)—California's mild influenza epidemic appeared to be moving eastward and northward today while health authorities anticipated a peak of cases within 10 days.

The number of cases in California was unofficially estimated at between 40,000 and 50,000. Approximately 40 deaths in the state during the last two weeks were attributed to influenza.

More than 20 schools were closed in northern California, particularly in rural areas where authorities said lack of proper sanitary facilities in serving school lunches were responsible for spread of the infection.

San Francisco and Los Angeles schools remained open. Thousands of city children were absent and authorities ordered a ban on all planned school assemblies.

University of California, Stanford, Santa Clara, St. Mary's and Southern California colleges reported their infirmaries filled to capacity. More than 300 San Quentin convicts were stricken.

In San Francisco, Health Director Dr. J. C. Geiger reported that 98 employes of the County Hospital were suffering from the flu germs.

Among the thousands of troops at Fort Ord and the Monterey Presidio, the incidence has been "surprisingly small," army health authorities said.

Kern County, where the first heavy infections were reported, said the epidemic was on the wane today.

New York to Guard Against Flu Menace

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Fear that the Pacific coast's influenza epidemic might spread to New York caused municipal health authorities today to summon specialists to a conference Monday to organize combative efforts.

N. Y. Teacher Reds Facing New Inquiry

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Twenty-five college teachers now facing contempt proceedings for refusing to testify at a legislative inquiry into Communist activities in the city schools will be investigated by the board of higher education.

Board Chairman Ordway Tead was authorized yesterday to request from the Corporation Counsel "an opinion of the powers of the Board in respect to such refusal to testify." The Board also asked for the Legislative Committee's minutes relating to the teachers' refusal to testify. The teachers contended that the one-man private hearings were illegal.

In public hearings earlier this week, the Committee heard testimony that nine Brooklyn College Faculty members and three other teachers were active workers in the Communist party both on and off the campus. Ten of these have denied the accusation.

Meanwhile, at Binghamton, N. Y., Thomas J. Mangan, Chancellor of the State Regent Board, placed the responsibility for ousting any Communist forces from the city schools on Mayor F. H. LaGuardia and the boards of education and higher education.

MUM ON PLANS — Count Richard de la Roziere, the French aviator fiance of Madeline Carroll (above), was in New York today, but the blonde film star, also in Gotham, refused to affirm or deny that a marriage was in the offing.

Windsors Due To Arrive in Miami Tuesday

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 7 (INS)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor will arrive in Miami by boat Tuesday morning, Nassau officials announced in Miami today.

Purpose of the visit is to have a jaw operation performed on the duchess after removal of a tooth at St. Francis Hospital at Miami Beach.

Following a press conference and a welcome by officials from the Miamia area, the Duke's party will go directly to the hospital where all members will remain during the operation.

The Duke, who is Governor of the Bahamas, will not make any public appearance and will not accept any social invitations during his stay on the mainland, it was announced.

They are expected to return to Nassau, Friday morning.

President Reported In Puerto Rico Waters

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Dec. 7 (AP)—Although official confirmation was lacking, President Roosevelt was reported to be in Puerto Rican waters today approaching the maneuver area off Culebra, where units of the Atlantic Patrol and Marines are having landing exercises.

40,000 PLANES A YEAR SEEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Prospective use of automobile factories in the manufacture of military aircraft today boosted to 40,000 planes a year the production rate which defense officials expect to attain sometime in 1942.

Four huge plants to assemble into finished units airplane parts made in motor car factories are to be constructed west of the Mississippi river, under plans of the War Department and defense commission.

Sites for two with a combined capacity of 2400 medium two-motor bombers a year were announced yesterday. One will be built at Kansas City, Mo., and the other at Omaha, Neb.

PLAN OTHER PLANTS

The other two plants planned, it was reported, will turn out four-motor bombers at the rate of 1200 a year. The locations of these two were not announced but it was understood that one site at Tulsa, Okla., was under consideration.

Officials estimated that 15 months would be required to get the new assembly factories into mass production. Their output, it was explained, will be in addition to that of regular airplane factories, expanding now toward a production rate of 36,000 planes a year by early 1942.

SHIP EVERY 12 DAYS

Disclosure of the aircraft production plans topped off a day of defense developments which included an announcement that naval construction was turning out a new ship for the fleet every 12 days although navy yards still were short of peak efficiency.

Failure to attain this peak was attributed by Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson, chief of the Bureau of Ships, to obsolete equipment.

In his annual report on the fiscal year ended June 30, Admiral Robinson said there had been little progress in eliminating such equipment which he described "as a source of reduced efficiency for many years." It now has to be retained he said, on account of the increase in work at the yards.

Parking Tag For a Mayor

Mayor William H. Hastings of Malden couldn't—and wouldn't—fix his own overtime auto parking summons today.

So, like any other offender, he went repentently to Clerk of Court Louis R. Shafer and listened to a warning not to do it again.

The complaint against the mayor was issued by Police Sergt. John J. Horgan. It charged overtime parking in front of city hall.

"I'm going to frame the cancelled summons and hang it in my office," Mayor Hastings said.

ARMY OFFICERS IRKED BY WALSH'S CHARGES

U. S. Senator David I. Walsh today was definitely embroiled in an argument with Army officials at Ft. Devens after his blast against conditions at the camp inspired a swift denial from Army officials.

While the senator made no immediate comment on the defense of the Army against charges its representatives treated citizens as serfs, he requested further evidence from citizens at the time he issued his complaint.

The army's official answer, composed by an investigating group of military intelligence officers and issued under Col. William A. Smith's authority, stated that job hunters are even served coffee while they await work.

The reply, which diplomatically avoided reference to the senator, said:

"Charges that unemployed men and women seeking jobs on construction work at Fort Devens have to stand in the cold and snow apparently were based on information obtained before the current cold weather set in, investigation at the fort indicated today.

"Not only have contractors provided a building in which at least 150 men can wait while seeking jobs, but also they have provided a branch commissary where the men can get hot coffee, food and tobacco. Sufficient wood to keep two stoves in the building going constantly also has been supplied by the contractors.

of items tabulated on the lists of donors, but they're indicative of the quality and quantity of the gifts.

More and more organizations were also reporting to the Christmas Ship headquarters that their cases and cartons, nearly filled, would be in Boston early in the week.

DEADLINE SET

The last case must be nailed down and stenciled for its ultimate destination on the other side of the water by next Saturday, Dec. 14, at noon.

Throughout this drive to fill A CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR ENGLAND, no money has been asked or solicited by any authorized agent of the campaign. Notwithstanding this many open-hearted persons have sent in cash, checks and money orders to Christmas Ship headquarters.

Money tendered in this spirit cannot be refused and the sums so received have been used to purchase new garments to go in the shipment.

A complete list of these contributors will be published in all editions of the Boston Sunday Advertiser tomorrow, Dec. 8.

Today, in addition to the aid of the League of Catholic Women, which has already begun its donations of clothing, the Christmas Ship campaign received the indorsement of The Pilot, official news organ for the Catholic Archdiocese of Boston.

"You can gladden hearts and save lives," the Pilot states in a two-column story, "and you can do it during the holiest, happiest season of the year."

MERCY VESSEL

Explaining that all can aid by helping to fill the Christmas Ship sponsored by the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, the Pilot goes on to say:

"This Christmas Ship, vessel of good will and mercy, will carry warm, usable clothing for destitute civilians, not soldiers.

"Time is precious, for the need grows hourly and the days between now and the departure of the ship are challengingly few.

"Help us spread the message . . . behalf of those thousands whose only hope for assistance is assistance from you and your fellow-Americans."

SWEATERS SENT

In the latest shipments received, a large number of attractive warm sweaters came from the employes of the Franklin Machine & Foundry Co. of Providence, R. I.

At the same time word was received from the Fairlawn Citizens' Committee of Pawtucket, R. I., that an overseas' packing case, filled with winter garments, was on the way to Christmas Ship headquarters.

Sec. William Brooks of the committee arranged for this donation and the J. & P. Coats Mfg. Co. donated the packing case.

OPEN FOR PRESENTS

Temple Sinai, in Sidlaw rd., Brighton, has opened its doors to receive parcels from its members.

Members of Boston's Junior Police are ready at any time to call at homes of persons who are unable to deliver their gifts to police stations or fire stations in their districts.

WORK NIGHT, DAY

All members of Massachusetts American Legion Auxiliary posts are working night and day to help out, following letters to each unit of these unselfish women. The appeal for their help was made by Dept. Pres. Agnes M. Dadley.

Already many parcels have been received from them and from their brother Legionnaires. In Ayer, for instance, the Joseph M. Connors Post, No. 139, and its auxiliary, has collected a large amount of donations and its gift is increasing every day, through the efforts of Mrs. Edward E. Backus, Auxiliary Secretary, in charge of the joint committee.

J. Kenneth Goggin of Capt. Alexander C. Corkum Post, No. 7, of the World War Veterans of the U. S. Merchant Marine, sent word that members of his organization were now ready with their contributions, and they were being collected today.

Citizens and veterans in Manchester, N. H., have already sent in many parcels, but there are fourteen more large cases on the way!

REPEATS COMING

And now the "repeats" are coming. The Superior Shoe Co., of 212 Lincoln st., Boston, which has already contributed a large number of women's shoes had asked for a truck to call and get more.

Throughout the campaign, members of the Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts, Inc., by courtesy of E. C. Benway, its manager, have carried parcels from outlying cities and towns to Christmas Ship headquarters free of charge.

To Manager Benway, to his association and to all of its members, the Record-American is deeply grateful. These members include A. Towle Co., Henry Jenkins Transportation Co., Framingham Motor Transportation Co., Kirk's Express, Athol Motor Express, M. & R. Transportation Co., Nemasket Transportation Co., Porter Trucking Co. and many others.

(Further details will be found in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.)

ASSISTING in packing cases of clothing for the Christmas Ship for England is Mrs. G. Franck McDonald, president of the Arboretum Club of Jamaica Plain. She's handling some of the warm blankets donated for Britain's needy.

Guard Recruiting To End Here Dec. 31

Recruiting for the Massachusetts National Guard will end December 31, it was revealed today by Adjt.-Gen. Edgar C. Erickson.

He pointed out that the Guard will be called into Federal service about January 13 and that smooth operation of the various units might be hampered by acceptance of late recruits.

Garner to Attend Inauguration Jan. 20

UVALDE, Tex., Dec. 7 (AP)—Vice-President Garner will go to Washington for the Roosevelt-Wallace inauguration Jan. 20 but he sees "no necessity for my being there earlier."

Donovan Again Heads to Europe

BALTIMORE, Dec. 7—Col. William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, World War commander of the "Fighting Sixty-Ninth," slipped out of Baltimore aboard the Clipper, bound for Bermuda—and possibly Europe.

Secrecy surrounded his departure. After the clipper took off, Pan-American Airways officials disclosed that a "Donald Williams" on the passenger list was Colonel Donovan.

Donovan returned to the United States Aug. 31 after completing a mission in Europe for Secretary of the Navy Knox. The Newark Evening News said earlier today in a special Washington dispatch that Donovan was to go to Europe "as a private emissary of the administration."

The article said the "main purpose" of his mission was "to overcome 'impressions,' both here and in England, that have been created by Ambasssador Kennedy's (Joseph P., former ambassador to the Court of St. James) so-called defeatist and appeasement outgivings."

Melrose Boy Nabbed in Car

A Melrose youth, found asleep today in a parked auto near South Windsor, Ct., was at first believed the victim of a suicide attempt by monoxide poisoning.

Roused by police, however, the sleeper identified himself as John P. Mattheson, 16, and said his home was with a grandmother in Melrose.

He had borrowed his father's auto to drive to Melrose, according to his story. Police said he admitted also taking from his father's Stamford, Ct., home a .25 caliber pistol, a hunting knife and a ring, found in his possession.

The father had reported the auto stolen. Police held young Matheson pending his father's arrival.

Send Only Woolens or Flannels

Italy's Oil Supply Periled by Greeks

tral sources" at Rome as saying that Gen. Ugo Cavallero, Italy's new chief of staff, soon would confer with Gen. Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command.—Editor's note.

De Vecchi's resignation, unlike Badoglio's, came as a surprise in Rome.

Bastico is a veteran of the Ethiopian and Spanish wars and has been commander of Italy's famous streamlined army of the Po, which was built for the blitzkrieg technique.

Reasons for De Vecchi's resignation were not announced.

The Dodecanese, lying between Turkey and Greece, are of considerable strategic importance, especially in the current Italian conflict with Greece. — Editor's note.

De Vecchi was appointed governor of the Dodecanese only a month after Premier Mussolini made him governor of Rome.

SOMALILAND GOVERNOR

He served as governor of Italian Somaliland from 1923 to 1928. In 1929 he was made Italian ambassador to the Holy See, first under the Lateran treaties of that year which ended the 59-year voluntary "imprisonment" of Popes within the Vatican.

He was awarded the Grand Cross of the Order of Pius IX by the Vatican in 1932 and held his ambassadorship until 1934, when he was made minister of education.

Even prior to the march on Rome he had served as president of the Fascist group in Parliament. A permanent member of the Fascist council, he was given the title of Count Di Val Cismon in 1925.

His successor, General Bastico was born in Bologna and won his first commission from the war school in 1906 after serving as a subaltern in the "Bersaglieri," plumed-hatted light infantry.

In the 1912 Italian-Turkish campaign, Batieco served as a balloon observer. He won a colonelcy and two decorations for valor in the World War.

LED DUCE'S PET DIVISION

He became a division general in 1932 and went to East Africa three years later as commander of Mussolini's pet division of blackshirt fighters, known as the "Twenty-third of March."

Bastico was commander of the blackshirt troops which captured Santander, Spain, for Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces in the Spanish civil war.

De Vecci founded the Fascist movement in Piedmont. He was wounded several times in the World War and in the fighting between the Fascists and their opponents in the days before Mussolini came to power.

Recalcitrant Farmers In Italy to Be Jailed

ROME, Dec. 7 (AP)—Just short of a half-year of active participation in the European war, Italy has ordered imprisonment and crop confiscation for recalcitrant Italian farmers and "greatest impetus" in production of war material.

"The basic importance of storage of agricultural products for supply of the armed forces and the civilian population requires this more severe exemplary suppression of any lack of discipline and comprehension of superior national necessities," said an official statement.

Previous dispatches from Rome have indicated no "lack of discipline" or "comprehension" among Italian farmers, but Italy, weaker of the two Axis powers in material resources, was reported on Nov. 29 by the United States Department of Agriculture to be facing a winter shortage of sorey needed foodstuffs and raw agricultural materials. The Agriculture Department declared that the British blockade of the Mediterranean had cut off more than 80 per cent of Italy's imports.—Editor's note.

War needs also impelled the government to order "greatest impetus" in production of war materials, particularly those for war industries, with mines to be worked to capacity.

London Sees Bodoglio Peril Duce Leadership

LONDON, Dec. 7 (INS)—Commenting on Marshal Pietro Badoglio's resignation as Italian war lord, the London Daily Mail said it meant much more than a disagreement between him and Mussolini over the conduct of the Greek campaign.

"It provides a potential leader against Mussolini and the war campaign folly," the Daily Mail said.

"Badoglio's prestige with the royal family, the aristocracy and the more professional elements of the army would make him the most formidable opponent Mussolini is likely to find in his own country."

The London Times said "The loss of Badoglio is bound to bewilder and depress the Italian people, who, for the past week, have talked openly of a quarrel between the marshal and Premier Mussolini."

Rome Says Lost Ground Regained

ROME, Dec. 7 (AP) — Italian counter-attacks were officially reported today to have regained some of the positions from which the Fascist forces were driven by the Greeks along the Albanian battle-front.

The high command said that the Greeks continued to press strongly against the Italian left flank in the mountains west of Pogradetz, but described their operations in the Argirocastro sector on the other wing as limited to "local attacks."

The communique made no mention of Greek claims to have captured Porto Edda, southwest of Argirocastro.

The high command did not specify in what sector the Italians made the counter attacks reported to have regained ground from the Greeks.

The communique said only:

"Our counter attacks have given us possession again of various positions. Alpine battalions, the second regiment of Bersaglieri and the 26th Artillery of the Army Corps have particularly distinguished themselves."

MANY NAZI AIR BASES BLASTED

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Britain detached a "powerful force" of bombers from their usual nightly raids on Germany last night to range over occupied France and the low countries and blast the airdromes from which the Germans are attacking England, the air ministry news service reported today.

At Chateaudun, 226 miles southwest of Chartres in the plain of Orleans and at Melun, only 27 miles southeast of Paris, successful raids were reported. The Chateaudun airdrome was raided several times and explosions and fires were seen on runways and in hangars, the service said.

At Melun, "heavy bombs threw masses of debris into the air and the pilot could clearly see fragments of a building flying in every direction," it was stated.

Other bombs started fires at Villacoublay, scored direct hits on hangars at Chartres—followed by a "spectacular explosion" — and fired gasoline stores near Lille, the air ministry service related.

Many other airdromes in occupied France were bombed and machine-gunned, it was said.

At Le Touquet, on the coast, one pilot came down to 500 feet so his gunner could spray the field with accurate fire, it was reported, and at Vitry-en-Artois a low level attack was carried out.

In the low countries, despite clouds and ice, airdromes at Brussels, Rotterdam and Eindhoven were among those attacked.

Nazis Bomb Bristol, West Coast Gateway

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Bristol, one of Britain's chief west coast ports and the gateway through which many of her seaborne war supplies have been flowing into the industrial Midlands, bore the brunt of German bombing attacks during the night, the government reported today.

Numerous fires were set by the raiders and a hospital and many other buildings were damaged, a comunique said. A number of persons were reported killed and injured.

A few bombs also were dropped in the southern part of England and in south Wales, a government communique said, but it added that for the most part German air activity over the island was "not on a heavy scale." No bombs were reported at all in London.

"Many incendiary bombs were dropped and some serious fires started" in the town on the Bristol channel," the communique asserted, but all were brought under control quickly. The raid ended before midnight.

The Royal Air Force, meanwhile, attacked "enemy airdromes in occupied Belgium and northern France," an authoritative source asserted.

BERLIN, Dec. 7 (INS)—German bombers last night concentrated on London and Bristol, causing extensive fires, it was stated authoritatively in Berlin today.

In adition, Berlin quarters claimed, Southampton, Bournemouth and Brighton were bombed "effectively" and numerous fires were caused.

The Cromer railway station was seriously damaged and a gas tank there exploded, it was stated. All the German planes returned to their bases, authorities said.

U. S. Weighing Credit to Spain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Secretary Hull said today that diplomatic negitiations were under way with the Spanish Government involving the possible extension of credits for foodstuffs. No agreement has been reached.

It was reported on Nov. 14 that Spain had requested a loan or credits of $110,000,000 with which to feed and rehabilitate a hungry Spain, but that action on the request was expected to await clarification of Spain's position in the European war.

ROOSEVELT PLEDGES U. S. AID TO GREECE

aviation material and munitions in this country.

At that time, Welles told the Greek minister, Cimon Diamantopoulos, that the request was received with the utmost sympathy by this government, but that it was a question that would have to be determined by other branches.

MESSAGE FROM KING

The message from King George said:

"In this hour in which my country is engaged in a hard and unequal struggle, forced upon it by an enemy whose actions are motivated by cruelty and violence, I am deeply moved by the warm sympathy and the keen interest manifested by the great nation whose destinies you guide.

"The noble American people have often in the past rendered assistance to my country in all critical moments of its history, and the recent organization of the Greek War Relief Association is further proof that still philhellenism continues to inspire Americans of today in their lofty aims.

"Guardians across the seas of the ideals for which throughout the centuries Greeks have lived and died, Americans today are aware that the Greek nation is again fighting for the principles of justice, truth, and liberty, without which life for us is inconceivable.

"I wish to assure you that with the help of the Almighty, we will march forward until our sacred struggle is crowned with success. All moral and material assistance will strengthen the heroic Greek army and will bring it nearer to victory."

In reply, President Roosevelt said:

"I thank Your Majesty for your friendly message which comes at a time when all free peoples are deeply impressed by the courage and steadfastness of the Greek nation.

"The American Red Cross has already sent substantial amounts of funds and supplies for the relief of suffering in your country and I am sure that my countrymen will give generously to the new organizations which are being established for the same purpose.

"As Your Majesty knows, it is the settled policy of the United States government to extend to those governments and peoples who defend themselves against aggression.

"I assure Your Majesty that steps are being taken to extend such aid to Greece, which is defending itself so valiantly."

CUPID'S BRAND—That's what Myrna Loy and Melvin Douglas are reflecting about . . . in a scene from their film, "Third Finger, Left Hand." You can win a wedding ring if you're to be married before Dec. 11.

Only one day left in this unusual contest! Hurry, if you want to receive one of the 25 gorgeous gifts in this contest sponsored by the Boston Evening American, Loew's State and Orpheum theaters and Rogers Jewelry stores.

If you intend getting married before Dec. 11, then you will want one of these 25 prizes. For the Boston American, Loew's theaters and Rogers Jewelry stores are awarding 25 wedding rings to 25 couples marrying before December 11.

This contest was inspired by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's latest hit comedy starring Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas, "Third Finger, Left Hand," current attraction at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters.

10-DIAMOND BAND

For first prize, a 10-diamond wedding ring will be presented to the "most ideal" couple marrying during the run of "Third Finger, Left Hand."

Second prize will consist of a 7-diamond ring to the "next most ideal" couple, and a 5-diamond wedding ring to the third couple selected by the judges — whose decision will be final.

The next 22 couples will receive beautiful wedding bands.

RINGS ON DISPLAY

These rings can be seen on display at Rogers Jewelry store on Washington st.

The rules are simple. If you intend marrying before December 11, send a photograph of yourself and your intended with names, addresses, date of marriage and telephone number to "Third Finger, Left Hand" Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass. Photographs must be postmarked before midnight Sunday, December 8.

This Check Sheet together with the other five Check Sheets appearing from Monday, December 2, to Saturday, December 7, inclusive, must be brought or mailed to the Game of Check, Box 2337, Boston Record-American, Boston, Mass., so that it will bear a postmark of no later than midnight, Saturday, December 14, together with 10c in coin.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

FOR SIX DAYS IT WAS REPEATEDLY ANNOUNCED IN THIS NEWSPAPER THAT NEW ENTRIES TO THE GAME OF CHECK WOULD BE CLOSED ON NOVEMBER 23RD, AT MIDNIGHT, AND THAT NO NEW ENTRIES WOULD BE CONSIDERED AS ELIGIBLE FOR A PRIZE UNLESS THE ENVELOPE BORE THE POSTMARK OF MIDNIGHT, NOVEMBER 23RD, OR EARLIER.

We have received a number of entries, which have come in after this announced deadline, and are still receiving such late entries. In fairness to all contestants, we wish it understood that none of these entries which have come in after the announced deadline, will be considered as eligible for a prize, and that all such entries have been duly disqualified in view of this.

If a contestant can submit an affidavit from his local postmaster stating that mail is not picked up in the late hours of Saturday evening and can prove thereby that his entry was placed in the mails before the stated deadline, then that entry will be permitted as qualified.

We wish to advise readers NOT to send in further entries for the first six weeks series, since same will not be considered and that deadlines for succeeding weeks must be observed.

We also wish to advise that readers who have sent in late entries, may call at this office for a refund, since we have no wish to retain the entry fees of late contestants who cannot conform under the circumstances to quality for a prize.

Contestants are asked to observe future deadline dates, so as not to be disqualified.

Contest Rules Reprinted Tues., Dec. 10

All persons taking part in the contest shall be deemed to be bound by the official contest rules which are printed in the Record and American from time to time as space permits. Copies of the rules may be obtained from the Record-American Contest Editor at any time.

OAKDALE FURNISHED HOME SOLD AT ONCE

An indication of the exceptional interest in low-cost new homes throughout Greater Boston was evidenced at the opening of Oakdale, in East Natick.

That the homes have genuine appeal to prospective buyers is shown in the fact that the furnished home was sold on opening day.

The throng that visited the Oakdale homes throughout the past two weeks was pleasing to the builder, Sumner D. Hersey, and the sponsors of the project, G. Fuller & Son Lumber Co., but the manner in which the houses were received by prospective buyers particularly impressed them with the fact that they were offering, as they believed when they planned the development, a new sector of homes that from a standpoint of construction, utility and cost to carry had genuine value as a home investment. The highlights of the furnished home were the decorative effects and furnishings as supplied by experts of the Sears, Roebuck & Co. staff and the kitchen equipment within the house from the General Electric Co.

Here, indeed, was liveability on display in every room, and a kitchen that drew high praise for its utility from the women.

Braden Boosts 'Fantasia' Hit

Frank Braden, dean of American publicity men and for 12 years with the press department of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus, is currently in Boston in advance of Walt Disney's "Fantasia." From here he will go to Washington, Philadelphia and Chicago.

This post of official ambassador for the latest Walt Disney full-length production, now on view at New York's Broadway Theater, will be under the general direction of Richard Condon, publicity director.

Braden, who is widely known as an ace publicity and promotion expert in the entertainment world, will pave the way for local campaigns and exploitation in those key cities which will be the first centers to see the film outside of New York.

Keith Gift Books

Keith Memorial and RKO Boston theaters, as is the pre-Christmas custom of RKO theaters throughout the country, are offering for sale gift ticket books. These books, aimed to facilitate Christmas shopping problems, come in attractive Christmas folders. Just as last year, when this offer met with such instantaneous response, the gift ticket books will have special bonus coupons.

"HOW MUCH did you pay for that atrocity?" Father (Louis Calhern), indicating a newly purchased china pooch, is asking Mother (Dorothy Gish). The scene is one of the many pricelessly amusing ones in the year's great comedy, "Life With Father," now in its third month at the Civic Repertory Theater.

'Hi-Ya, Gentlemen' Authors Have Yet to Know Defeat

Although strictly modest young men, John Monks, Jr., and Fred F. Finklehoffe, co-authors with Sid Silvers of the new musical comedy, "Hi-Ya, Gentlemen," now playing a pre-Broadway engagement at the Colonial Theater, are also a confident pair. Their confidence is based on the fact that in their brief career they have written nothing which did not turn out to be a success.

Measuring success in terms of dollars, this means that everthing they have written totalling one play and several screen stories, has grossed a cool million at least.

Their first play, "Brother Rat," which George Abbot produced, brought in more than a million. So did the film based on the play and likewise another film called "Brother Rat and the Baby."

In selecting a college background for "Hi-Ya, Gentlemen," Monks and Finklehoffe are using halls of learning to their own comic stage purposes for a second time, the action of "Brother Rat" having taken place in a military school. The school was the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, where the pair were students and where they hatched the plot while still undergraduates.

Monks and Finklehoffe have borrowed a phrase in general use at their alma mater for their present work. On the campus at V. M. I. "Hi-Ya, Gentlemen," is a common salutation. The authors declare it is also used at Washington and Lee University.

'Bojangles,' Young at 61, Still Rules as Tap Dancers' King

Three score years, most of which Bill Robinson has spent dancing, are time enough for any legends to flourish. And "Bonjangles," the greatest tap dancer of them all, is the subject of a good many that are told and retold wherever show folk congregate.

Across the years Bill has danced his way to pre-eminence in the art of precision rhythms. There is no dispute to his title of "The King of Tap Dancers" among the countless numbers who know him from the stage and from the movies. At 61 he has yet no challengers to the crown he wears so jauntily in the new revue, "All in Fun," which continues a third week at the Shubert Theater.

There is less positiveness in the explanations that are forthcoming for the name "Bojangles." In Memphis and in Nashville they will tell you that the word is authentic, meaning "Good Guy" or "Happy-Go-Lucky." To one Des Williams goes the credit for affixing the appelation onto Robinson.

The story runs back to 1913 and the grey light of a dawn, following an all-night gambling session. Robinson, emerging a winner, walked down the street in that characteristic light-footed way of his, and he went into a dance, humming as he tapped. The taps quickened, the humming grew louder, he let his feet go with a gayety that seemed to ring on the pavements with the sound of happy-go-lucky, happy-go-lucky. Williams caught the rhythm and the sound, and watched entranced. "Bojangles, that's his name. Bojangles," he is said to have cried. And Bill has been Bojangles ever since.

By BETTY ALDEN

THE INK isn't yet dry on the memory book pages devoted to her debut party, but no girl could have happier reminders to cherish through the years than Polly Curtis who was presented to society at a large ball at the Hotel Somerset, last evening . . .

A tall attractive blonde, Polly received with her mother before a background of brignt red poinsettias, mistletoe and holly . . . Gayly decorated Christmas trees guarded the entrance of the ballroom and other reminders of the festive holiday season were the bunches of mistletoe which some of the ushers tucked in their boutonnieres . . . and the red camellias which each debutante guest found at her place at the ushers' dinner . . .

Long gloves, flowers in the hair, flower wristlets and lace mantillas were favorite fashions among the beautifully gowned guests . . . Nancy Eliot achieved a dramatic effect with long black gloves and a filmy black lace scarf draped over her hair to accent her ice blue satin gown . . . Alice Hunsaker's reddish gold hair was covered with a black mantilla and her black velvet skirt had a big wide band of lace over pink satin set in the skirt . . .

Many Dinners Precede Debut

PETITE POSY KENT dashed in from one of the many dinner parties preceding the dance, making a winsome picture in a long red wrap with a gold hood, and a white dress with a bodice of red, gold and blue striped metal cloth . . . Betty Maynard wore pink camellias in her hair and a pale blue tulle gown . . .

There were singing and dancing stars for the entertainment of the guests both during dinner and later in the evening while a midnight supper was served . . . Ruby Newman's hand played for dancing . . . Still other debutantes attending this memorable party were Betsy Bradley in the lovely white tulle gown in which she made her debut in the same ballroom; Anne Lyman whose pale blue chiffon gown had a bodice of cherry red; Fanny and Catherine Curtis, sub-deb sisters of the debutante, and Louisa and Laura, the two little sisters who were allowed to stay up late enough to share the excitement; Barnet Gring in apple green taffeta with a green and gold bodice; Elise Cunningham, Peggy Crocker, Susan Simonds, whose gown was made of bands of shimmering silver lame appliqued to white tulle; blonde Betty Breed in gray net trimmed with silver; Polly Faulkner who was a great favorite of the stag line; Sister Sears, Margaret Gardiner, Janet Harwood and many, many others . . .

Smith-Plummer Ceremony Today

WEARING HER grandmother's wedding gown of rich ivory satin, with a tulle veil and bouquet of white lilies, Susan Parsons Plummer is being married this afternoon to George Watson Hall Smith, Jr., of Providence . . . The ceremony in Emmanuel Church is to be followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Parsons Plummer . . . Rev. Endicott Peabody and Bishop Perry of Rhode Island are officiating and the bride is being given in marriage by her father, Mr. Morgan Plummer of South Dartmouth . . .

Alice Plummer, maid of honor for her sister, is wearing emerald green taffeta with a small green velvet hat trimmed with fresh gardenias . . . The bridesmaids are Joanna Hoyt, Virginia Shrigley, Elise Cunningham, Margaret Fry and Mrs. Henry S. Parker of Boston; Prudence Smith, sister of the bridegroom; Elizabeth Evans of Philadelphia and Theodora J. Lannon of New York . . . Their green taffeta gowns are like the maid of honor's except that they have panels of white taffeta on the skirts . . . They are all wearing gardenia trimmed green hats and carrying bouquets of gardenias . . .

Mrs. Plummer has chosen a gown of burgundy crepe with a matching hat . . . Following their honeymoon, Mr. Smith and his bride will live in Providence . . . Susan, a debutante of last winter, is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club . . . Her bridegroom was a member of the class of 1941 at Harvard . . .

MR. AND MRS. MURRAY POPE leaving the Church of the Redeemer, Chestnut Hill, following their marriage yesterday. The bride, the former Ruth Edmands of Brookline, wore an ivory slipper satin gown trimmed with ruching and a long bridal veil of heirloom lace. The couple will live in South Duxbury.

Joint Debut At Club Dec. 11

Miss Cynthia Thorndike, daughter of Mrs. Richard K. Thorndike of Millis, and Miss Sallie Newbold, daughter of Mrs. T. Jefferson Newbold of Marlborough st., will be presented to society at a dance at The Country Club Wednesday evening, Dec. 11.

The usher staff will be headed by the debutantes' brothers, G. Quincy Thorndike, Richard K. Thorndike and T. Jefferson Newbold, Jr. Assisting them will be Francis W. Bird, Peter Black, Joseph R. Coolidge, Richard Eustis, S. Stuyvesant Fish, David Goldthwaite, Augustus P. Loring, 3d, and Robert St. George, Jr.

Both girls are provisional members of the Junior League and belong to the Vincent Club.

League Cast At Luncheon

The Junior League players, who are deep in rehearsals for the annual Christmas play which they present for children in Greater Boston settlement houses, will take time off from rehearsal on Monday to attend a luncheon meeting, at which Miss Clara Gomnes will be guest of honor.

Miss Gomnes, head worker at the North Bennet Street Industrial School, will tell the girls what the plays mean to shut-in children. Another prominent guest at the luncheon will be Dorothy Gish of "Life With Father."

Miss Lucy Pope, chairman of the players, will preside.

PEGGY PARKER IN NEW DANCES

Peggy Parker, post deb daughter of Mrs. J. Harleston Parker of Commonwealth ave., will once again have her name in theatrical ads and her picture in the billboard at the entrance of the Latin Quarter. This blonde dancing star of several Vincent Club shows will return to the Latin Quarter for a two-week dancing engagement beginning Sunday evening, Dec. 15. She will present two entirely new dances of her own creation.

Debut

Dinner, Then To Theater

After dancing till the wee sma hours this morning at Polly Curtis lavish debut ball, about 100 debs and Harvardians can rest their tootsies at tonight's merry debut party. It's a dinner for Ernesta Rueter, who thoughtfully planned a theater party instead of the usual dancing, for after-dinner entertainment.

The dinner is being given at the Algonquin Club by Ernesta's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Glover Rueter of Dartmouth st. Following dessert and demi-tasse the guests will all adjourn to the Colonial.

Blonde, vivacious Ernesta one of the most graceful waltzers among this season's debs, is wearing pale gray tulle with a bodice of silver lace, and carrying a spray of ale pink orchids. Mrs. Rueter has chosen a gown of wine lace and velvet with a corsage of orchids.

Relief Workers Cheerful Lot

The true spirit of Christmas is exemplified in two headquarters in town where small armies of willing volunteers are packing tons of warm woolens to be sent to England in time to spread cheer and encouragement among the needy and homeless on Christmas Day.

The headquarters of the Boston American Christmas Ship for England at 100 Summer st., is a beehive of industry with hundreds of workers busily sorting and packing donations of blankets and warm clothing for all ages.

Another busy spot is the uptown branch of the British War Relief Society at 203 Clarendon st. Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw and Mrs. John E. Kennedy head the group of tireless workers who turn out quantities of knitted goo's for the fighting and home forces of England. Mrs. Shaw and Mr William Bayne, 3d., have added a Christmasy atmosphere to the shop with decorations of juniper cut form the Bayne place in Westwood.

Mrs. Bartlett Harwood, not only works tirelessly herself, but lends her chauffeur to assist Miss Alice Gray Reynolds with the packing in the cellar, and her sewing women to do odd kits of mending on clothing donated for shipping.

A new goal has been set for workers at both headquarters by the cheery news that all shipments sent so far have reached the other side safely.

DINNER, LUNCHEON FOR CHINESE ENVOY

Dr. and Mrs. George C. Shattuck are giving a dinner tonight at the Brookline home in honor of His Excellency Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese Ambassador who is visiting in Boston. Dr. Shih will be guest of honor at a dinner and revue to be given Monday evening at the Copley-Plaza under the aupices of the Massachusetts Branch of the American Bureau for Medical Aid to China.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hartt of Brookline will give a luncheon for Dr. Shih tomorrow.

Hot Breads, Popovers,

By MARTHA LEE

In planning menus so many homemakers overlook the fresh appeal which a mere change in breadstuffs can bring about. Hot breads, for instance, add a gala note and new interest to the most humdrum meal.

Chief among the hot breads in popularity are popovers. Tender, golden-brown, crusty and light as a feather, served piping hot from the oven, popovers are a marvelous hot bread for any meal—breakfast, luncheon or dinner, so treat your family often to them.

POPOVERS

2 eggs
½ cup irradiated evaporated milk
½ cup water
1 tbsp. melted butter
1 cup flour
½ tsp. salt

Beat eggs. Add milk, water and butter. Sift flour, then measure. Resift with salt into first mixture. Beat until smooth. Pour into well greased muffin tins. Bake in a hot oven (450 deg. F.) 15 minutes, then reduce to moderate oven (350 deg. F.) to finish baking. About 35 minutes are required for baking. Makes 12 popovers.

Popovers may be split open and used as patty shells to hold creamed chicken, creamed seafood or other creamed foods. They're delicate and tender and cut easily—all the qualities a patty shell should have.

There's always a place for graham muffins—they fit in well on many occasions. With simple meals they are a fine addition and children like them in the school lunch box, too.

GRAHAM MUFFINS

1 cup graham flour
1 cup white flour
2 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp salt
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. soda
1 egg
½ cup irradiated evaporated milk
½ cup water
1 tbsp. vinegar
2 tbsp. melted butter

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Beat egg until light and foamy and add milk, water, vinegar and melted butter. Stir liquid quickly into dry ingredients in 18 to 20 seconds. Compact and ill-shaped muffins result from too much stirring. Pour batter instantly into tins and bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) 15 to 25 minutes. Makes 12 muffins.

Muffins can be made in such infinite variety that no single type need appear oftener than once a week.

PLAIN MUFFINS

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
3 tbsps. sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
3 tbsps. shortening, melted

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine egg, milk and shortening and add to flour mixture, stirring only until mixed. Use tablespoon to dip batter into greased muffin pans and fill them 2-3 full. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) for 20 to 30 minutes, according to size of muffin. Makes about 1 dozen medium-sized muffins.

VARIATIONS

Cranberry Muffins—Add ¾ cup chopped cranberries mixed with three tablespoons sugar to sifted dry ingredients.

Dried Fruit Muffins—Add to sifted dry ingredients ½ cup of one of the following fruits, whole sliced, or chopped: raisins, currants, dates, figs, prunes, apricots, peaches, or a combination of prunes and raisins.

Nut Muffins—Add ¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts to sifted dry ingredients.

Cheese Muffins—Add dash of paprika and 2-3 cup grated American cheese to sifted dry ingredients. Sprinkle additional grated cheese over tops of muffins and bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 30 minutes.

Bacon or Ham Muffins—Reduce sugar to two tablespoons and add 1-3 cup coarsely chopped crisp bacon or finely cut boiled ham to sifted dry ingredients.

Knit Smartest Box Coat

PERHAPS you feel that them as wants the great outdoors when winds whistle down from the North Pole can have it . . . but as for you, you'll stay by the fire and knit . . . and you'll look out at the red-nosed multitude on the local ice ponds . . . and stay in and knit. This is such a smart box jacket that even if you're pressed for time, and knit on street cars or between study periods, you'll certainly find the minutes needed to work on it. It is knitted in two colors using a heavy yarn with large needles. And what more perfect gift for the cruiser, or the skier who can use it with slacks for "after-skiing?" Help Your Child to Plan His Own Christmas Gifts

By MRS. BEECKMAN

The thoughtful mother sits down with her child and helps him to make a list of the relatives and friends he wishes to remember at Christmastime.

It is wise and co-operative to let even the tiny child of four or five plan his own gifts and be responsible for choosing and buying them. If you wish, you may assign an allowance for these gifts and help him to keep within this budget.

You can give your child a very valuable sense of discrimination and thoughtfulness if you talk over with him what he thinks father would like, or grandmother or sister or brother.

It isn't necessary to take the child on long shopping trips with you, for these are tiring and baffling to a child. But there are many things that you can go with him to buy at neighboring stores.

Many mothers do their children's Christmas shopping, assigning the gifts with a fairly impersonal comment. "This is the gift that you are to give to daddy," or "grandmother will like to have you give her this."

This cheats the child out of the thrill of planning his gifts, buying them with his own thoughtfulness choosing them with what he is proud to think is his own appreciation of what the recipients will like.

There is something about this way of having a child give his gifts through someone else's choice which seems to emphasize the fact that he is anticipating getting gifts in return, rather than giving the gifts for the joy of giving them.

On the other hand, there is inevitably something lovely in spirit that gets into a gift that is chosen by the giver himself. Anyone would prefer to receive a simple, inexpensive something chosen by the child himself, rather than an expensive gift chosen by an adult proxy for the child.

Let the child have the delight, too, of wrapping his own Christmas presents, providing himself with the gay wrappings, ribbons, stickers, cards to be enclosed or attached.

Flower-Fragrant Bath Powder Makes Ideal Gift

By ARLINE GOULD

SEE TO IT that your "little gifts" . . . are in good taste and as tempting as something more costly . . . but if it seems like an awfully difficult accomplishment, here's our suggestion-of-the-week for an under-one-dollar gift.

Special ferreting on our part disclosed this extraordinary buy . . . and it will save you a great amount of searching through high-priced counters.

It's a handsome one-pound box of flower-fragrant bath powder . . . and very much under a dollar . . . though it will be hard to believe when you see it . . . 69 cents!

The Boston shop featuring this buy exclusively will be glad to send out the bath powder . . . thereby saving steps and time for you . . . but we suggest that you pass the idea on to someone else or "blanket" your whole list of feminine "little gifts" with this very welcome powder . . . so you can send for two or more boxes of it.

Simply, yet elegantly packaged, the bath powder is done up in pale cream, tied with mahogany colored ribbon and wrapped in cellophane. It has a big, soft puff. And the quality of perfume ingredients and silken powder is vouched for by the fine shop which sponsors this swell buy.

There are vogues in fragrance as well as in hats, lipsticks and ballet dancers . . . and the public, meaning you and I, has been very susceptible to certain flower scents. With a canny nose to the trail the topnotch favorites have been chosen for this bath powder, so you'll be able to hit on just the right one for different people on your list. There's honeysuckle and gardenia, also spice and apple blossom.

If you'd like shopping information on this gift "buy" . . . One pound of flowery bath powder, elegantly packaged, for 69 cents, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4900, week-days, except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

JELLIED CHICKEN

½ tbsp. granulated gelatin
1¼ tbsp. cold water
¾ cup chicken stock
1 cup cooked chopped chicken
1 cup cream, beaten stiff
Few grains cayenne pepper

Soak the gelatin in the cold water. Then dissolve in hot chicken stock. Stir until mixture begins to thicken and add cream. Season with cayenne. Mold chill and unmold on crisp lettuce.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Saturday, Dec. 7.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—Energetic, proud, bright but inclined to be combative and sometimes thoughtless. Must learn to use rightly your powers for concentration and intelligent action so that you will realize your own great possibilities. Can be successful in either an executive or less important position. Guard emotions. Benefits, if you strive after them. Don't entertain doubt or worry. Go forward constantly with high hopes and ambition. Continue to learn and to improve.

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 34.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is Alice blue.

Send 15 cents and large self-addressed stamped envelope to Frances Drake, Boston Evening American, Box 2224, Boston, for an individual horoscope, personal guide and lucky calendar for the last six months of 1940, giving the day and month you were born.

Your Handshake

Do you realize how clearly a handshake indicates character? The nervous person hardly puts his or her hand in yours before it is jerked away. The self-conscious person gives you a hand as lifeless as a dead fish. The over-enthusiastic person almost crushes you with the warmth of his or her cordiality.

Avoid these extremes. When you shake hands, do so cordially, with just enough pressure to convey appreciation, and just enough reserve to indicate poise. A perfect handshake, accompanied by a smile, is a social asset that no one can afford to ignore.

Study Shorthand for New Job

YOU CAN TEACH YOURSELF IN HOME COURSE

Who are winning the new jobs heralded by the newspaper headlines? In office as in factory it's the skilled workers who profit by this business upswing.

So if you lack training do something about it. Shorthand is a skill for which there's a demand in every kind of office—and with such a dash of spunk you can teach yourself shorthand at home.

Spend a few hours of your spare time each day in its study and you will be able to climb out of that luckless group of untrained workers which are last to be considered at any employment office.

Pitman shorthand is really simple when you understand the principle. Instead of tediously spelling out a word, you write brief symbols for the way it sounds. "Arrive," for instance, is just a curved line with a tiny "r" and a dot.

No matter how many words your boss dictates to you he'll be using the same few sounds over and over, so you won't have many symbols to learn.

Fit yourself for a good position with the help of our 41-page booklet. Pitman Shorthand Self-Taught. Gives the Pitman method in easy, step-by-step lessons. Includes time-saving word-signs, phrase forms, pointers on acquiring speed and accuracy. Enables you to take office dictation.

Send 15 cents in coin for our booklet, Pitman Shorthand Self-Taught, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 119 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y.

CHRISTMAS SHIP SPONSORED BY "BOSTON AMERICAN" WILL SPEED GOODS TO ENGLAND

At the Yuletide season, all hearts go out in Christian charity to those of our brethren who may be less fortunate then we. It is at this time that we stop, in the middle of the hurry and bustle of the Christmas rush, and pause for a moment to consider the merits and needs of the various and sundry appeals that are daily called to our attention. There are many in our land who will depend upon others for a little of the Christmas cheer and joy and although they might be lacking in the material advantages, they still are living in a country free from the terrors and outrages of war, a land of freedom and peace. For this reason, the charitable enterprise launched by the Boston Evening American, Sunday Advertiser and Daily Record, to send a Christmas ship from New England to Old England meets with the enthusiastic response of all civilians in every walk of life.

Watching England's desperate and heroic battle to preserve the last vestage of freedom in the old world, many have asked themselves, "What can we do to help, our mite is so small?" The Boston American has provided the answer to that query.

You Can Help!

You can gladden hearts and save lives—mothers' lives, fathers' lives and little children's lives. And you can do it during the ho... to you, to all the members of your family and to all the residents of your neighborhood.

Help us to spread the message in behalf of those thousands whose only hope for assistance is assistance from you and your fellow Americans.

Your wardrobe can supply many sorely needed articles.

They are the countless thousands of suffering civilians in bomb-ridden England, facing the cruelest winter in memory, their saddest Christmas. Even crueler and sadder than in day of the first World War.

Uncounted numbers of homes of these innocent victims of war—these babies and children and mothers and old folks—are only empty shells or smoking piles of rubble after a raid of Nazi bombers.

Too often death rides with the raiders. But for those who survive there is only hardship.

They have only the priceless possession of the spirit left—a strong heart, courage and hope.

Courage Not Enough

But strong hearts won't keep the biting winter winds from shivering bodies; courage won't keep the sick and aged warm, hope alone won't sustain the newborn babe.

EVENING AMERICAN, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1940

THAT illustrious American, William Cardinal O'Connell, dean of the American hierarchy and first cardinal priest of the Catholic Church, observes his eighty-first birthday tomorrow.

As the day approached, the Cardinal prepared a statement, which now the whole world may read with assurance of receiving spiritual benefit.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL
Prays for World Peace as Birthday Nears

In that statement, published today in The Pilot, a weekly newspaper maintained in the interest of the Catholic Church of the Archdiocese of Boston, the Cardinal tells us:

"On next Sunday, December 8, the glorious Feast of the Immaculate Conception of the Mother of God, I will celebrate by the grace of Divine Providence, my eighty-first birthday.

"The prayer of my heart and soul on that day will be one of profound gratitude to Almighty God for the countless graces I have received from His Bountiful Hand through all the years. Not the least among these graces I count the loyal and devoted co-operation which I have received from my priests and people and the beautiful spirit of harmony that exists between us all.

"I am glad to have this opportunity to send my blessing and best wishes to the Priests, Religious and Laity of the Archdiocese and I beg them all to remember me in their prayers, Masses and Holy Communions next Sunday, imploring our Heavenly Queen to continue her protection over me and our beloved Diocese.

"I cannot let this occasion pass without expressing my heartfelt gratitude to all my good friends and neighbors, not of the family of the faith, who, by their friendliness, have helped to make my life and labors so pleasant and fruitful.

"Let us all unite in beseeching the Queen of Peace to intercede with her Divine Son that He may send His peace to the distracted world and His wise counsel and prudent direction to the leaders of our beloved country that we may continue in that peace which is one of heaven's choicest gifts."

Would that all the world's distinguished men might similarly employ their birthdays to extol gratitude, brotherhood, faith in God's eternal mercy and peace.

Then, surely, war, tyranny and oppression would pass away, and all men and all nations could live as their Father in Heaven created them to live.

LATIN-AMERICA'S ESTEEM is sincerely desired throughout the United States. But, in our attempts to promote good will, we should avoid misleading our Southern neighbors.

And we should exercise caution at all times to be sure that our programs and promises are related to underlying economic realities.

The plain fact is that in agricultural production much of Latin America complements Europe while competing with the United States.

In such circumstances, how much realism is there behind the plea of Chester C. Davis, former head of the A. A. A. before the National Grange that co-operation with Latin America may require American farmers to discard some of their "traditional patterns and prejudices?" Mr. Davis gratuitously remarked:

"I hope that the farmer's voice at the council table . . . will be constructive, not obstructive."

This creates an atmosphere unfair to American agriculture.

No diplomatic formula or honeyed phrases can laugh away the basic economic fundamentals, which determine the normal flow of trade.

With American agriculture chronically depressed by surpluses, it is fantastic to imply that in the interest of political arrangements we should make a bad domestic economic situation worse by importing the competitive surpluses of other nations.

It is fallacious to give the impression that Latin America can long prosper while cut off from her customary outlets in Europe.

The continuation of the exhausting war overseas is piling up trouble for all nations, whether belligerents or not.

No clever diplomatic formula can act as a substitute for world peace, which is a condition precedent to international prosperity.

And meantime American farmers should not be harassed by those who are seeking to wink at the facts.

On The Side

-:- By E. V. DURLING

THE following is named as a "typical" English breakfast: "Soused herrings, boiled eggs, cold ham, fresh fruit, marmalade, toast, coffee." Sounds all right. But tell me, what is a soused herring? . . . "Guess you are always meeting interesting people," says a Lorain, O., reader. Should say I am, sir! Why last week I met a fellow named Ollie Wog who told me he had a sister Polly Wog. I once met a man named Harry Nutt who had a wife named Hazel . . . Title of the film, "Arise My Love," is from the Bible, Song of Solomon 2:3, it reads: "The fig tree putteth forth her green figs, and the vines with the tender grape give a good smell. Arise, my love, my fair one, and come away" . . . How tall are you, lady? Most likely you are taller than Spain's dictator, General Franco, who is five feet three inches.

LYING on the lounge listening to "Sherlock Holmes" on the radio, I looked up during a particularly exciting part and saw my pup with his head cocked to one side, his eyes glued on the radio and a look of intense interest and excitement on his face. Besides being a singer, he is a mystery story fan. What a dog! They've started picking best pictures of 1940. Best I've seen this year are "The Long Voyage Home," "Arise My Love," "Pride and Prejudice," "Rebecca," "The Great McGinty," "Waterloo Bridge," "Grapes of Wrath" and "All This, and Heaven Too." . . . How about you? . . . "Only cigar store Indian in America is on Clark st., Chicago," says a news item. It isn't so. I saw a cigar store Indian in Baltimore . . . Dispatch from Nassau says the Duchess of Windsor who "looks her best in blue," wore a blue flannel tailored suit to a garden party. This recalls the last thing Barbara Stanwyck's mother said to her when she left her old home in Brooklyn, "Barbara, always remember there's nothing like a black or blue tailored suit."

O. O. McINTYRE used to say the word blizzard sounded like one . . . Henry Ford refers to his wife as "The Believer," because from the beginning she believed Henry would do what he has done. Fortunate is the man whose wife way down in her heart believes in him. How is it at your house, ma'am? . . . Carlton Ellis invented a dog biscuit looking like a bone and made a fortune from it. I think I'll try to invent something instead of writing a novel. What would you think of a folding mirror that a woman could carry in her hand-bag? She could open this and get a full view of her face without having to depend on slot-machine mirrors. Not so hot. You say? Well, just give me time I'll invent something. I like inventing better than writing novels because I will be able to lie down in the patio and look up at the stars while I am doing my invention thinking.

-:- MY DAY

LAREDO, TEXAS, Friday—We went without lunch yesterday, because, on arrival here I found a delegation waiting to receive me. I went right in to shake hands with everyone and to listen to a group of three musicians who were playing most delightfully. Then, for a few minutes, I talked with quite a large group of the press, not only from here, but from various neighboring places.

After that, a Mexican delegation, which had come to greet me, appeared. The Mexican Consul suggested that we might like to cross the border to see Nuevo Laredo, which lies just across it. The mayor of Nuevo Laredo was most kind, and it was very interesting to see the new municipal building in which their offices are soon to be housed.

They have space enough here to erect beautiful arched balconies to keep the sun away from the rooms inside.

WE WERE SHOWN the water works and a most beautiful municipal swimming pool, where I was told that many of the children from the United States side of the river come to swim. The water and electric light plants are municipally owned, which means, they tell me, good lighting for the streets. We shopped in one or two shops, bought some delightful French perfume, a few pieces of Mexican silver jewelry and some Indian weaving.

Then we went back across the border and we settled down to a little work on mail, but even as we worked we enjoyed the many lovely flowers which filled our rooms. A most beautiful platter of grapefruit with a basket of oranges, grapes and dates reminded us that this is the land of fruit. The dates had no pits and tasted particularly good.

A most wonderful basket with different kinds of candies and fruits is going back with us on the plane, so that others in the household at home may enjoy it with me. So many people have sent us various kinds of remembrances, that we found it very difficult to close our bags this morning.

My lecture last night was on a new subject; "Strengthening the Bonds of Friendship Between the Americas by Cultural Ties."

I felt that there were a number of people who could have talked with more authority and greater knowledge. I enjoyed, however, being able to give expression to my belief that the development of our cultural relations is basic to any political and economic understanding.

If we are to defend ourselves in this hemisphere and preserve our democracy, we must have unity in the Americas. That will only come through the understanding of our various cultures.

We leave in a few minutes to drive to San Antonio.

HARRY PILCER, the American dancer who won fame as Gaby Delys' partner in Paris, before the last war, returned to New York a few days ago, and visited the Copacabana. He described his flight from Paris and his reason for deciding to leave France as quickly as possible . . . Pilcer had remained in Paris until a few hours before the Germans entered. A friend then offered him a lift, in a racing car which had a full supply of gasoline. Just as the Nazi troops were entering the city, Pilcer and his companion drove off. "We rode at full speed, and arrived at Vichy," said Pilcer. "Then I knew that it was time to get out, because even with our racing car, I found Germans were there ahead of us."

BECAUSE of Germany's new tactics in concentrating its bombing on different cities in England each day, the editors of the Herald Tribune decided to send an additional correspondent to England. They conferred with Henley Hill, assistant managing editor, about offering this new, dangerous job to one of the staff reporters—and suggested that the matter be kept a secret until the job was filled . . . Hill preserved the secret, but somehow, some way, within three hours, there were 25 volunteers for the London job.

ONE of the members of the Star Spangled Ball committee, in charge of getting specialty numbers for the event to be held at the Astor on Dec. 20, was instructed to invite Gypsy Rose Lee. The plan is for the strip-teaser to come dressed in stars, which will be removed one by one, at the rate of $1 per star-strip . . . The committeewoman was unable to locate Gypsy, and decided to phone her husband, a newspaper man, for help . . . "Hello, dear," she told him. "I'm calling to find out whether you know how to reach Gypsy Rose Lee quickly." Then she added: "And if you do, I'll be very angry."

VIRGIL THOMSON, the music critic and composer, has been writing unkind articles about the N. Y. Philharmonic. "I'll get even with Virgil," John Barbirolli threatened, "by playing one of his pieces" . . . Harry Carey will be elevated to co-star billing in the new picture, "Shepherd of the Hill" . . . Liberals in the administration are asking the President to replace Breckenridge Long and Avra Warren, of the State Dept., because of the manner in which the visa-distribution is being administered. FRANZ WERFEL, who is so heavy set that he hired taxicabs even for a one-block ride, told some friends about his experiences in escaping from France. Werfel, who at one time was reported to have been executed by the Nazis when they took Paris, told of his having masqueraded in women's clothes, of the forged documents which were obtained for him, and of the long devious route by which he finally was able to reach the border and avoid the Nazi aviators who kept machine-gunning the refugees . . . "But then, at the border, came the most harrowing part of the entire journey," Werfel sighed. "Because then—I had to walk for two whole hours."

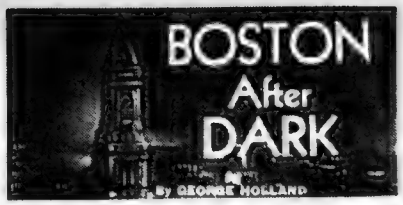
H. G. WELLS' companion at Sardi's Wednesday night was Constantin Oumansky, the Russian Ambassador to this country . . . Ralph Barnes, the Herald Tribune correspondent who was killed when the RAF bomber in which he was flying crashed in Yugoslavia, will be buried there until the war is over. The British officials are supplying the slab which marks the graves of all the soldier dead, and Barnes' editors forwarded the cost to Britain—$25.



EXERCISES IN SLY HUMOR are being used by two New York drama editors to entertain themselves and the Broadway weisenheimers, and because Jane Cowl and Peggy Wood, stars of next week's theatrical newcomer in Boston, are the butts of the joke, perhaps the incident is interesting.

TO THE INITIATE of the stage and its doings, considerable amusement has been aroused by the unprecedented and peculiar "billing" of Miss Cowl and Miss Wood in "Old Acquaintance," a play by John van Druten . . . "JANE COWL 'Old Acquaintance' PEGGY WOOD" is the carefully contrived manner in which the attraction is advertised.

NOT JANE COWL in "OLD ACQUAINTANCE" with PEGGY WOOD," nor PEGGY WOOD in "OLD ACQUAINTANCE" with JANE COWL" . . . Nor even "Jane Cowl and Peggy Wood in 'Old Acquaintance'" . . . None of these accepted forms of establishing the value of stars and play has been sufficient to satisfy what obviously is the most intense and zealous rivalry . . . (We may presume, however, it is being conducted on very ladylike lines).

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE PLAY was made some weeks ago in New York . . . From time to time, items about the play's progress—such as cast additions, choice of director, date of opening and other trivia—have seen print in the Gotham journals.

BUT THE PUCKISH DRAMA editors mentioned above have twisted the meticulous order of things by referring to the play alternately as "Peggy Wood's new play, with Jane Cowl," and as "Jane Cowl's new vehicle, starring Peggy Wood" . . . If it keeps up, or if the Boston critics' circle decides to have some fun on its own, the atmosphere backstage at the Wilbur may become absolutely frigid.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: With weeks of work on "Hi-Ya, Gentlemen" still needed, Bobby Connolly, the veteran dance director, has packed his old kit-bags—and presumably most of his troubles—and has headed home to California . . . No one is talking . . . It would be sad if reconstruction of this very entertaining show should disturb the professional relationship of meek little Sid Silvers and pert little Ella Logan.

THEY ARE WELL-NIGH PERFECT foils for one another, and it's not only on account of the simularity in size . . . And when are Charles Collins and Dorothy Stone, who are enticing crowds of customers to the Mayfair, going to get a real "break" in a musical show?

SOMETIMES THE "BREAK" COMES when a team of entertainers splits, with the individuals going their separate ways . . . There's a case at hand in what has happened to the Kean Sisters . . . In 1938, Jane and Betty Kean played the Cocoanut Grove as one of the few bonafide sister-acts in the business . . . The kids were really good, and were tabbed as promising.

SUDDENLY, THREE YEARS LATER the Kean sisters have been promoted to principal roles in different major musicals . . . Jane is excellent in support of Max Baer, Audrey Christie, Mr. Silvers, Miss Logan et al at the Colonial Theater . . . And in New York, Sister Betty is rehearsing a very important assignment in "Crazy With the Heat," which is due here Christmas week . . . When Judy Garland comes to the Loew houses Thursday as "Little Nellie Kelly," nostalgia will attack a large number of Bostonians, who—to borrow from the parlance of the race-track—may be described as of "middle-age and upwards."

JUDY GARLAND PLAYS POPULAR ROLE

Comes to Loew's Thursday in "Little Nellie Kelly"

BEAUTIFUL ELIZABETH HINES created the stage "Nellie Kelly" at the Tremont Theater 18 summers ago . . . Throughout the glamorous twenties, no musical comedy prima donna—not excepting Marilynn Miller—won the affections of Boston theater-goers so decisively as did Miss Hines.

ALICE FAYE GIVEN GRABLE ROLE

By Louella O. Parsons

Alice Faye

ABOARD THE CHIEF, Dec. 7—Just as we caught the train out of Chicago I received a wire that "The Great American Broadcast" has been completely recast—again! Here is the new lineup as the sports writers say, for the 20th Century-Fox radio musical: Betty Grable is out—and Alice Faye is in for the starring femme role. Henry Fonda is out and Jack Oakie takes over his completely rewritten assignment. John Payne and Cesar Romero, previously announced, are still in the game—I mean, the picture, at this writing.

The Grable girl, it seems, has been transferred to "The Eagle Flies Again," the story of American fliers in England's war. She'll play a chorus girl in a London dance hall who is in love with a British flier until a handsome American air hero comes along. The two heroes aren't cast yet—but maybe Henry Fonda will be one of them. Or is that where we all came in?

LUPE VELEZ and Big Boy Williams are going on the "Santa Fe Trail" junket to New Mexico—and Lupe is confidentially telling a few friends (a couple of hundred of them) that she and Big Boy will probably be married there Guadaloupe Day. This is the day, also, of the premiere which should add up to plenty of excitement for the Warner "premeering" guests—not to forget the Indians and other fiesta makers. Lupe has always had a sense of showmanship and I must say choosing Friday the 13th for the day—and a movie trek with plenty of whoopee for the occasion, is certainly doing things up in dramatic style—even for Lupe's wedding.

IF GLORIA JEAN'S recent personal appearance tour was a test of the youngster's popularity—Universal most certainly has its answer. The little girl did terrific business. Her last picture or two was not so hot although no fault of hers. But now "U" is convinced little Gloria is worth their time and trouble. From now on she will do no more program pictures. She'll be co-starred with big names and casts that are important and they believe she'll be bigger than ever.

It came to me as a hot rumor to be tracked down that Carroll was getting out a restraining order against the release. It seems that Earl feels that his bevy of beauties are not shown off to the best advantage in this picture and that many suggestions he offered were not heeded during the production. Legally, they say, Maestro Carroll hasn't a leg to stand on since stars can't get out restraining orders merely because they don't like pictures.

"THAT is somewhat involved, my love," Vaslav said, "Oh, have no doubt—I shall tell you! But it is a so complicated matter that perhaps we might better put it off until another time. After the ballet, say . . ."

"The ballet?" She wondered at his assurance. Still, having gone so far, why should she draw back now? Especially with the end of her quest in sight. "Yes," she said. "After the ballet."

Vaslav's glance swept her possessively.

"I am afraid, my sweet, that I shall have great difficulty in keeping my mind on the performance. But I shall do my best. Meanwhile . . . please give me some hope."

She shook her head.

"I don't know. Stick to your bargain. After the ballet . . . we'll see."

Brinda arose, suddenly weary of her surroundings, desperately eager to be safely home and tucked between cool, calming sheets. She had little personal fear of Vaslav now; yet she was deeply relieved when, at last, she found herself again in the wide lower hall. Never again would she enter the hidden elevator, nor trust herself in that strangely disturbing room.

It seemed years since the end of the rehearsal, and she realized with a start that it was actually very late. Nearly 3 a. m., a hurried glance at her watch told her.

"I'll see you home, of course," said Vaslav. "Unfortunately my car is out of service. I hope you tolerate taxis."

She could feel the strong tremor of his hand as he touched her, helping her with her wraps. There was no escaping his pervasive yearning—it was like something that could be felt and touched.

"No real need to bother," she protested, as he helped her into the waiting cab. His grip tightened.

MORE MYSTERY

"I doubt that you fully comprehend all my conduct, my dear." Then, halfway into the taxi, he paused. Brinda saw him spear rapidly to a man who emerged from the shadows of the darkened mansion. An exclamation of annoyance, and he was back.

"Fate is against me. It seems I must let you go alone after all."

"Another mystery?"

"Another. But it, too, shall be explained." Bowing low, he seized her hand and kissed it with fierce ardor. "Goodnight, my Dushka—my only one! I adore you! Goodnight!"

As the taxi whirled away, he turned back to the house. A word with the man, and he went inside.

In the hallway, furious, stood Lady Gladys.

"So that's your new conquest!" raged the beautiful blonde daughter of Lord Mountwyn. "Well, you've gone too far, this time, Vaslav! Three o'clock in the morning! This must stop! You hear?"

"Not being deaf," replied Vaslav, coldly, "I do. How do you propose to stop me?"

"You should know," stormed the ordinarily cool Gladys. "I shall warn Sir John Sanderson. Not only about his precious Brinda, but about you . . . I'm going to tell him . . . everything! Do you understand?"

"Yes. Very thoroughly. Now go!"

Lady Gladys looked at him unbelievingly.

"I will, Vassie," she sobbed. "I will. I'm not just threatening. On my word—I will!"

Principal Characters in Today's Chapter

BRINDA, daughter of Mata Hari and ward of Sir John Sanderson, British Intelligence chief.

VASLAV, mysterious Russian nobleman, who may be a Nazi agent.

GLADYS, titled English aristocrat and fiancee of Vaslav.

MATA HARI'S Daughter

MAURICE DEKOBRA and LEYLA GEORGIE

Vaslav opened the door.

"Go. And don't come back until you are—reasonable!"

As Gladys groped her way to the street, Vaslav coughed sharply, twice. The figure emerged again from the shadows, revealed as the bull-necked chauffeur, Vaslav pointed. The man nodded.

Had Gladys looked back, as she hastened frantically along the dim street, she would have seen a sinister shape following—never close enough to be detected, but always keeping her in view.

The calm before the hurricane. Throughout the world—except in Poland and Finland—people were asking: When would real war begin?

But Poland and Finland were so far away. Elsewhere—even in France and England—the hope still flourished that somehow, in some mysterious way, the threatened catastrophe would be averted.

On clear days, German observation planes flew in leisurely fashion over England, photographing docks, arsenals, gasoline stores—and the royal residences. German U-boats continued to exact daily toll. But except in Finland, there were no bombs falling, no cities burning, no armies locked in combat. To the contrary, there was much talk of German guns that would not shoot, German planes that would not fly, of a German people famished, rebellious; ripe for revolution. The Maginot Line seemed so secure and Finland's firm Mannerheim Line was in a like category at that time.

BEFORE THE STORM

It was a sort of Indian summer of civilization; a lost, golden dream of peace and security and ease—a dream from which the sleepers were soon to be fearfully awakened.

In London, blackout rules were relaxed. Theaters and night clubs were thronged. Titled enemy aliens, allied by blood ties to the Royal Family, were freed from internment and allowed to wander about on parole. The last Londoners who had evacuated to the country in September began to drift back into the city—some to Mayfair, more to the slums. Gas masks were no longer de rigeur; fewer bomb shelters were built; people laughed at the occasional shrieking alarms—always false—of London's air-raid sirens. Appeasement was officially dead; but, in spite of everything, its ghost still stalked busily.

Vaslav's enthusiasm over the coming charity ball was undiminished. And when the night of the performance came, Covent Garden was amply filled by Britain's elite—peers, cabinet ministers, dowagers, debutantes, army and naval officers resplendent in dress uniform. Conspicuous, too, was the usual melange of social aspirants—people who had gladly paid their two-pound-ten for the privilege of mingling with England's great.

There had been a final rehearsal of principals during the afternoon. The chessboard set, comprised of the conventional black and white squares, each three feet in diameter, occupied the stage. Back of the curtain, there was the usual feverish, last-minute bustle, augmented by the presence of amateurs in the cast and the fact that this was a first performance.

Vaslav was everywhere, moving with cat-like grace about the set, correcting costumes, conferring with electricians and stagehands, speaking quick words of praise or admonition.

Brinda was forced to admire him, even though the thought came to her that, at this time, he might be better using his gift for organization in the armed forces. Still . . . it was all for England's sake. And perhaps there had to be men who danced as well as men who fought. Besides, the Prince was Russian, and, the new international line-up being what it was, it was easy to understand why he might feel under no compulsion to take up arms.

"SUPERB!"

He saw her, and, leaving a pretty debutante talking to empty air, hastened across the set. In an embracing look, he paid tribute to her loveliness.

"Superb!" His eyes drank in every detail—her shining hair, her exquisitely moulded features; her eyes, big and dark with excitement; her Chess Queen's costume, cut daringly low above to reveal splendid, ivory-white shoulders and slashed cunningly below in a way that bared her legs to the thigh, accentuating their slender length and flawless symmetry. He drew a deep breath.

"You are indeed a Queen, my premiere danseuse! A gold and ivory Queen, beautiful enough to rule over any empire."

A swift, strange smile suddenly lit his face. "Who knows?" he said softly. "Perhaps, after this war is done, you shall!"

Brinda's eyebrows went up mockingly.

"Still mysterious!"

"Only until after the ballet," he whispered. "You know the bargain? My secrets—for your love! For you!"

Listen, World! -:- By Elsie Robinson

LET'S be different in this year to come. Let's be—OURSELVES!

Let's be the SELVES we once wanted to be—the gay, impudent SELVES — the brave, reckless SELVES—the impulsive, generous SELVES — the trusting, friendly SELVES. Let's be the SELVES we wanted to be before caution cooled us and selfishness hardened us and stupidity muddled us—

Let's be the SELVES we were meant to be—AND LET'S TAKE A CHANCE ON THOSE SELVES!

Let's take the year to come as a dashing adventure, a red-blooded challenge and not merely as 12 months of time.

That's the way we took life when we were young—and life was hot and swift and sweet because we took it that way.

Life was full of lovely surprises when we were young because we took a chance with it. Life leaped and sang and dived and danced with stars wreathed in its hair because we took chances with it and with ourselves.

Now life is safer, easier, more comfortable, perhaps—but so much duller. Life drags and crawls now—or sprawls motionless for dreary days.

TAKE a chance on life again! Take a chance on yourself again! TAKE A CHANCE ON LOVING!

People need love so much more than you realize. People are ready for love—ready to give and take love. And you need love. You are withered and cold for lack of love. You are like a cell that is closing in and in . . . crushing your heart. Dare to love! Dare to love abundantly, recklessly, joyously!

Don't be so afraid of joy. Don't be so afraid of play. Let yourself go again. Let yourself be trivial and silly and warm and fresh with fun. Let laughter run through you and sweep you, and shake the dust from your tired mind and heart, as a spring wind runs through the oaks and shakes the leaves of the young birches.

You've grown so cautious—so afraid—so doubting and so bitter. Take a chance on faith again . . . faith in life, faith in the Other Fellow, faith in Yourself—and in God. Don't wait until you find someone who's "deserving" of your Faith. Don't wait until you have proven that people merit your truth and God is real enough for your belief.

Take a chance on believing that goodness exists in everyone and God exists for us all! Above all, take a chance on Life itself—on Life being worth the living.

You can't live life abundantly, yet perfectly. You can't find all the answers without making mistakes. And suppose you do? What's wrong with a mistake? S'matter of fact, we all learn ten times as much from our mistakes as from our successes.

Moreover, if you want popularity, if you want power (and who doesn't?) you'll find that Mistakes will open hearts which Success could never touch—and give you influence you could never gain by triumphs. Which do you love the more—the Shining Light or the Horrible Example? The Horrible Example every time. Take a chance on being made a fool—and all the other fools will open their hearts to you.

TAKE A CHANCE ON ME!—Funny request? Maybe. But now's as good a chance to mention it as any. Here we are, going along together, you and I. Every day I write to you—every day you read me. (Or should!) And always we're needing each other.

And how I need you you'll never know, partner. THEN LET'S GET TOGETHER!

Take a chance and WRITE TO ME! Bawl me out if you wish—whine or wheeze, grouch or peeve—but take a chance on our being friends. AND I'LL BET YOU WON'T BE SORRY!

'Sit a bargain? Then let's go!

MUNROE CHRYSLER SALE HEAD

President David A. Wallace of the Chrysler sales division, Chrysler Corporation, announces the appointment of Stewart W. Munroe as general sales manager. In his new capacity, Mr. Munroe will be responsible to Charles L. Jacobson, vice-president in charge of sales.

S. W. Munroe

Stewart W. Munroe probably has as wide an acquaintance in the retail end of the automobile business as anyone connected with the industry. Because he went into business as soon as he finished preparatory school at Phillips Andovr, he has become one of the real veterans, though still young in years.

His connection with automobiles goes back to 1911 and covers experience with a number of companies whose names are now just memories, including such one-time prominent concerns as the automobile division of the American Locomotive Co., and the Stevens Duryea. He came originally from Oneida, N. Y., and his first business experience was in Syracuse with the Stevens Duryea retail establishment.

He joined forces with Walter P. Chrysler back in March, 1921, when Mr. Chrysler had just been appointed chairman of the board of Maxwell.

ASSIGNED TO BOSTON

He was assigned to Boston as supervisor for the New England States and retained that capacity when Chrysler superseded Maxwell. In 1925 he returned to the Detroit factory as assistant director of sales and soon afterward was promoted to director of sales.

During the early 1930's he served as the Chrysler sales division's resident representative in Boston and later in New York, in both of which places he did an outstanding job. He was recalled to the factory about three years ago and shortly after Charles L. Jacobson became vice-president and general sales manager, he named Mr. Munroe as assistant sales manager, from which position he has just been promoted to general sales manager.

FIELD EXPERIENCE

A very large portion of Mr. Munroe's service has been spent in the field, with the result that he has acquired an intimate knowledge of retailing problems that will stand him in good stead in his new capacity.

Night and Day Workers Speed New Car Production

New car sales are booming and America's automobile factories are working night and day to speed up 1941 model production. Here's a very remarkable night scene taken recently at the Flint, Mich., Chevrolet factory, showing several buildings, while in the foreground and right center a group of new cars are under way to the shipping division for release to the Chevrolet dealer organization.

NEW COUPE ADDED TO DODGE LINE

To its 1941 custom models of Luxury Liners Dodge is adding a convertible coupe on which production has begun. The new model is of unusual design in a number of respects and has, in addition to the conventional windows disappearing into the doors, two rear windows disappearing into the sides of the body.

The provision of the two extra windows gives the convertible coupe the wide range of vision ordinarily found in sedan and Brougham body types.

With all windows raised and the safety-glass ventilator wings closed, the occupants are glass-enclosed in front and at the sides, protected from wind and dust, yet enjoying the unobstructed view and the open air freedom that make this type of car the preference of many motorists.

The collapsible top is operated by electric motors, rising into its protecting position or folding back and lowering into place as the driver manipulates a control button on the instrument panel.

Easy access to the rear seats of the new Dodge Convertible Coupe is through wide doors, past tilting front seat backs.

While the major chassis details of the coupe—such as 119¼ inch wheelbase and power plant features are in the main those of the 1941 line of Dodge Luxury Liners, the body structure is marked by a luxurious leather-upholstered interior. An unusually spacious under-deck compartment with spring-balanced lid affords ample luggage accommodations.

MOYE CO. APPOINTED

Howard Walsh, Boston zone manager, today announced the appointment of the Moye Chevrolet Co., 41 Washington st., Newton Corner, as Chevrolet dealers.

Harold J. Moye, president of the firm, recently purchased the Dunham Chevrolet Co. He has completely renovated the sales and service buildings and is holding open house today to which the public is invited.

Moye is a former executive of General Motors and has been identified with the automotive industry for more than 13 years.

Glass Pouring by Ford Sets New 600-Day Record

DEARBORN, Mich., Dec. 7—A record unparalleled in the history of glass making has been achieved by the Ford Motor Company's glass plant, where a huge 100-ton melting furnace has been poring out a 51-inch-wide sheet of glass without interruption for nearly two years. The run started on March 29, 1939.

Up to midnight of November 22, the furnace had been pouring its white-hot ribbon of glass without a halt for 600 consecutive days. If laid out in a straight line, the sheet would make a broad glass strip 1900 miles long—the distance from Detroit to Salt Lake City.

Statisticians at the plant have figured that the total weight of the glass output during the 600 days exceeds 46,250 tons and that the glass would cover 42,100,000 square feet. The 51-inch ribbon pours from the furnace at the rate of approximately 3¼ miles a day.

EXCEEDS HOPES

"This record run exceeds our most optimistic hopes," a Ford technician said, "although we felt sure we would break our old record of 189 days. Now that record has been more than tripled and the run still is going strong. Another few months and it will be two years old—if we are lucky."

The fact that the run is still in progress is a tribute both to Ford engineers, who originated and designed the continuous rolling system, and the glass plant personnel which has kept it operating.

Continuous rolling is much faster than the method it superseded, and it makes possible a uniform high quality of glass at a great reduction in cost.

According to the glass plant superintendent's office, a close watch over all steps in handling the furnace and over the uniform high quality of the "mix" have been major factors in prolonging the run.

EXPECTED TROUBLE

"For example, we expected trouble with the metal rollers that receive the white-hot glass and regulate its thickness," the foreman said. "Under heat of around 2200 degrees these rollers would oxidize and the glass might stick like dough to a rolling pin. We found a means of cooling them uniformly and adding to their life.

"Lubrication, handled by an automatic system, has figured in the record run, too. Another potential source of trouble was power failure which could halt the electric-driven machinery. But we solved this by installing an automatic circuit thrower that cuts in a new power line if one quits."

Glass plant workers, from foreman all the way down the line, are keeping their fingers crossed—and for good reason. When the record run stops, the interruption will mean a complete remolding of the 117-foot melting furnace and an overhaul for the mechanical equipment that feeds it.

Pontiac Sells Boston 5095 Cars in Month

Boston zone dealers of Pontiac Motors today reported selling a total of 5095 new and used cars in the month of November.

Of the total sales, 1914 were new 1941 Pontiac Torpedoes, Charles N. Kane, zone manager, said this breaks all previous records for November and is within 215 deliveries of last April, the biggest month in the history of the Boston zone.

Reports from dealers indicated the excellent showing was due to improved economic conditions bringing larger payrolls.

Ward Advertising Head of Hudson Co.

DETROIT, Dec. 7 (AP)—George H. Pratt, general sales manager of the Hudson Motor Car Co., today announced the appointment of H. O. (Herb) Ward as advertising manager for the company.

Ward has been associated with automobile advertising for the past 16 years. And for the past 12 years he has been director of advertising and sales promotion for a major automobile manufacturer.

He is president of the Adcraft Club of Detroit and the Foreign Trade Club.

Hudson Shipments Show Business Rise

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 7—George H. Pratt, general sales manager of the Hudson Motor Car Co., disclosed today that Hudson domestic shipments of 1941 models, for the first four months of the current selling season, already exceed one-half of the volume of cars shipped in the entire 1940 season.

BUICK CAR DELIVERY SETS NOVEMBER HIGH

FLINT, Mich., Dec. 7—Domestic retail deliveries of Buick motor cars during the second 10 days of November totaled 10,623 units. Topping the previous record for this period by more than 1300 cars. According to sales figures made public today by W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager.

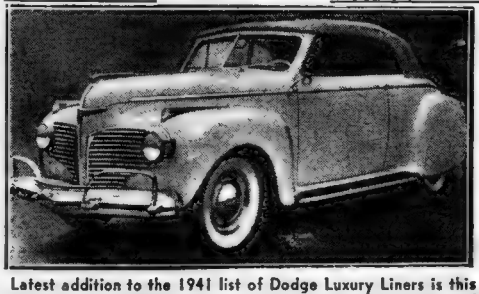
The sales compared with 9175 in the previous 10 days and with 8270 in the corresponding period of November last year, Mr. Hufstader said. This was an increase of 14.5 per cent over a year ago, the previous record volume.

With more than 20,000 new cars retailed in the United States thus far in November, the executive said it is indicated Buick deliveries will exceed 30,000 units for another all-time high.

This manufacturer continued with a large bank of unfilled orders and with heavy factory shipments to dealers to meet retail requirements.

A 21 per cent increase was registered in used car sales during the period, with 15,448 deliveries reported by Buick dealers. Used car stocks in the hands of dealers are on the basis of a 29 days supply, Mr. Hufstader said.

Dodge Convertible Makes Debut



Latest addition to the 1941 list of Dodge Luxury Liners is this attractive convertible coupe with electric operated top and four disappearing windows.

YOU MAY CLEAR the decks for the action in the New England finals of the All-America diamond belt championships at the Garden on Monday night. There will be 32 boxers battling in the eight open classes and ten sturdy fighting men exchanging blows in the five open classes.

There will be 36 bouts in the open classes and five in the novice divisions. Forty-one bouts in all, featuring the best crop of simon pure boxers ever to step into a New England ring.

Each boy won the right to compete in Monday night's show by winning in trial contests at the Arena. They will now strive for the New England titles on Monday night so that they will be eligible to compete in the Eastern finals at the Garden on Dec. 23.

Every youngster who will crawl through the ropes on Monday night is a potential champion.

There should be fast boxing and good action in the 112-pound class which will feature Edward Santon, Boston; Tony Peppi, Boston; John Griffin, Jr., Lawrence; Tommy Luckman, Brockton.

The 118-pound division will find Orlando Fanti, Lynn; Joe Landry, Gardner; Frank Martin, Plymouth, and John McKinnon, Boston, trading blows.

Francis Leonard of Taunton is the favorite to win in the 126-pound class. A year ago Leonard won the New England and All-Eastern 118-pound titles, and later made a creditable showing in the grand national finals in San Francisco. I thought Leonard was given the worst of it in the decision that put him out of the Coast final.

Leonard has packed on a few extra pounds since Last Winter. He has retained all of his speed, while he is punching harder than ever.

Rivals for Leonard will be Jackie Heard, Boston; Ralph Viau, Providence, and Al Sforza.

William Daley in 135-Pound Class

William Daley of Roxbury, who went to the Coast finals in the 126-pound class as the All-Eastern champion, will be tossing leather in the 135-pound division. Daley has retained all of his amazing speed, while with the addtional weight he is stronger and is hitting harder.

Francis Welch, Lowell; Orlando Cioffi, East Boston, and Steve Bomal, Lowell, will also take part in the 135-pound class.

The 147-pound division should also be productive of action with Fred Earle, Sagamore; Willard Buckless, Saugus; Dave Andrews, Lowell and Guy Fasulo, Boston, seeking the championship.

I look for the most intense fighting of the show in the 160-pound division. Thomas Hill of Lowell and Larry Pacino of Roxbury, who fought so sensationally in a trial bout, may meet again as they have both qualified. Hill knocked Pacino out after coming up off the floor five times. Pacino later won in a tryout tournament, and he tells me he will strive to even his score with Hill Monday night.

It is possible that James Harvey, South Boston, or Sal Cesario, Boston, may draw either Hill or Pacino as an opponent in the semi-final and upset the dope.

John L. Is Tommy Sullivan's Inspiration

TOMMY SULLIVAN of South Boston, who will compete in the 175-pound class, declares the ring record of John L. Sullivan inspired him to become an All-America champion. Tommy has shown flashy boxing form and a heavy punch in this year's show. He will have as rivals Leo Bronzetti, Framingham; Manuel Baptiste, Taunton, and John Lopes, New Bedford.

The heavyweights always produce action. This year should not be an exception. The big fellows who will blaze away with kayo wallops are Howard Thompson, Saugus; Pat Devine, Cambridge; Bill Dupes, Cambridge, and Esterino Cimino, Cambridge.

Novice Boxers Have Furnished Thrills

NOVICE BOXERS have produced thrills and laughs. The finals should come up to the high mark set by the trials.

The 135-pound group will find Chris J. Christ, Mattapoiset, taking a few punches at Fred Morini, Boston.

In the 147-pound group, Irving Luce, Boston, will mingle with Clarence Kittridge, Haverhill, while in the 160-pound class it will be Jerome Covino, Boston, against Manuel Barboza, New Bedford.

John Young, Roxbury, and Richard Tracey, Roxbury, are the novices who will meet in the 175-pound class.

55 Cents and $1.10 for Title Show

FOLLOWERS OF the New England championships are taken from the Arena into the swanky Garden without any increase in the price scale. The committee in charge of the All-America show is holding to the regular popular price scale of 55 cents and $1.10.

There are 18,000 seats in the Garden, and as a result all who wish will be accommodated with a seat.

There are still plenty of choice seats left. They may be secured at the box offices at the Garden and at the Arena.

SULLIVAN '175' FAVORITE IN N. E. ALL-AMERICAS

By WALTER KILEY

Forty-two of the scrappiest young gladiators who ever stepped into a simon-pure ring will travel down the glory road next Monday night at Boston Garden. They will be the fighting principals in the New England All-America amateur boxing championships.

FINAL WORD—Irving "Red" Luce, crack novice welterweight, gets polishing lesson from the old master, Al Delmont, former N. E. bantamweight king. "Red" will box Monday in N. E. All-America finals at the Garden.

There will be 29 bouts Monday, 24 in the open division, with semi-finals and finals in each of the eight championship classes, and five finals in as many novice divisions.

EASTERN DEC. 23

The Boston American-Record and the Irish-American A. A., sponsors of the All-Americas, offer this show at the low prices of 55 cents and $1.10—no seats higher.

Reservations can be made at either the Boston Garden, CAPitol 3200, or the Boston Arena, COMmonwealth 2040.

Winners of the New England open titles will qualify for the New England team which will meet similar champions from New York city, Albany and Baltimore in the Eastern All-America championships at Garden on Monday, Dec. 23.

Those Eastern winners, in turn, will qualify to battle it out with similar sectional champions of the Far West, Mid-West and South in the National All-America Grand Finals to be held at Boston Garden on Jan. 27.

Earlier this week mention was made of several classes to be decided. Today we make mention of the 147 and 175-pound divisions.

EARLE BEAT CHAMPION

In the 147-pound contention will be found Fred Earle, Jr., 20-year-old canal worker from Sagamore, whose greatest triumph was a decision over Jimmy Mulligan, 1940 New England champion at the weight; Willard Buckless, 20-year-old Saugus clerk, who has been boxing only a year but has come to be one of the most feared boys in his class; Dave "Golden Boy" Andrews of Lowell, a 19-year-old laborer and 1940 New England junior champion and one of the most spectacular performers in the All-America tryouts at the Arena; and Guy Fasulo, 22-year-old North Ender who looked impressive last Monday night.

Tommy Sullivan, 20-year-old South Boston Fish Pier packer, is being favored in some quarters to lift the light heavyweight title.

IN TRIM—Tommy Sullivan, South Boston, winds up training for N. E. All-America bouts. Tommy holds practically every N. E. light heavyweight title extant.

18,000 Seats 55c and $1.10

The New England finals of the All-America diamond belt championships at the Garden on Monday night are being offered at popular prices of 55 cents and $1.10.

There are 18,000 seats in the Garden, and so there will be ample space for all who wish to see the show.

You may obtain reservations at the Garden and Arena box-offices.

Trojans, Irish Top 7-Game Gridiron Slate

By International News Service

Although most of the mythical All-America football teams have been selected and all but one of the major "Bowl" teams picked, 14 collegiate gridiron machines continue the regular season today in seven games scattered all the way from Charleston, S. C., to Honolulu Hawaii.

The biggest battle of the day from the standpoint of tradition and spectator interest will be the 15th annual renewal of football activities between the fighting Irish from Notre Dame and the Trojans of Southern California.

A crowd of 80,000 is expected to witness the struggle, in which USC is rated a 3 to 5 favorite.

The Rice-Southern Methodist game in the Southwest attracted nationwide attention mainly because the winner may be selected as the Southern representative to oppose Fordham in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Although usually reliable sources report that the Texas Aggies will receive the Bowl bid, the Cotton Bowl authorities have announced that an opponent will not be named until after the SMU-Rice tussle.

Texas, surprise victors over the Aggies on Thanksgiving Day, travel to Florida for the last game of the season for both schools.

Villanova will try to climax a comparatively poor year with a win over Auburn, but odds-makers favor the southerners.

Texas Tech tackles San Francisco in the shadow of the Golden Gate; the Citadel battles South Carolina just for fun and, in case you are interested, San Diego is out in the land of slim native girls and pineapples to play Honolulu.

$100,000 Playoff

Redskins Duel Bears

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Carl Storck, president of the National Football League, announced today that the gross receipts for tomorrow's championship game between Washington and Chicago would be the highest in the history of the professionals' playoff system.

"The total receipts," he said, "should go well over $100,000. We've gone a long way in a short time, I think. Why, I remember when I played a whole season of pro football for $17.50, including the playoff."

Storck, one of the first of the pros, predicted the time is not far off when the championship will gross a quarter million dollars.

The Washington-Chicago game was a complete sello-ut last week a few hours after the public ticket sale started. Most of the pasteboards had gone earlier to regular season ticket holders

RAIN DUE TONIGHT

The weatherman predicted fair skies and chilly temperatures for the meeting of the hard-charging Bears and the pass-flipping Redskins, although he said rain would fall tonight.

A canvas has been spread over the playing field and rain should not alter conditions.

The Bears were still odds-on favorites despite the 7 to 3 licking the Redskins gave them three weeks ago.

"That suits me fine," said Ray Flaherty, Washington coach. "I believe that's just what the boys want to hear—just enough to make them give us one of their best games of the year."

Washington has practiced out of doors every day this week, while the Bears were kept inside by severe weather in Chicago until yesterday. Today they had Griffith Stadium for the afternoon.

FLAHERTY ANGRY

Flaherty was slightly irked because his secret practises have been anything but secret.

"We've locked the gates and called the cops," he complained, "yet every time I look up I see someone I know from Chicago standings on the sidelines."

Flaherty has spent a great deal of time this week on new offensive plays—featuring Slinging 'Sammy Baugh, the League's best passer, and Dodgin' Dick Todd, one of the loop's best ground gainers.

The bears likewise were reported to be perfecting all kinds of hocus pocus to use against the Redskins. They've even called in Clark Shaughnessy, coach of Stanford's Rose Bowl team, as a consultant.

Followin the playoff, Washington will be the scene of a two-day National League meeting, the feature of which will be the annual draft of college senior players.

Taylor Triple Gives Him 258; Dew Has 266

Piloted by Willie Kelly, Roman Boy ran out at the head of the stretch in the featured John Davis purse, but still had enough left to win by 2¼ lengths in the fast time of :49 3-5, just a fraction off the track record. With the favorite J. Brandner's O'Play, running second, Roman Boy returned $7.80 at the mutuel windows. A. Bronzo's Ski Patrol lasted for show

Taylor scored aboard Callao in the third race, Ace of Trumps in the fourth and Gioucher's Boy in the seventh, bringing his total victories for the year to 258 on an unofficial count. He is running second to Earl Dew, now campaigning at Bay Meadows, in the race for the year's jockey honors.

Father-to-be Godoy Sails for Chile Home

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (INS)—Arturo Godoy, the South American heavyweight who in April will fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight title for the third time, has sailed with his wife so that their expected child will be born in their home in Chile

Chet Gladchuk, B.C., All-America Center

By HERB BARKER
Associated Press Sports Editor

Boasting the greatest concentration of football talent in its history, the Middle West dominates the 16th annual All-America team, selected today by the Associated Press on the basis of a nation-wide survey of expert opinion.

Led by the powerful Western Conference where Minnesota, Michigan and Northwestern set a rapid pace, the Midwest places three men on the first team and 10 men, all told, on the All-America squad of 33, divided among first, second and third teams.

Trailing the Midlands are the South and East, with seven players each on the full squad; the Southwest and Far West with four each, and the Rocky Mountain section with one.

Completing another season of spectacular play, four members of the 1939 All-America ensemble are selected again — Tom Harmon, Michigan's sensational halfback; John Kimbrough, smashing fullback of the Texas Aggies; Nick Drahos, Cornell's great tackle, and Paul Severin, North Carolina end.

Of these, all except Albert and Reinhard are seniors.

Selection of Elrod and Gladchuk give Mississippi State and Boston College, All-American representation for the first time since the Associated Press began its selections in 1925.

As chosen, the All-American team has all the necessary qualifications of speed, skill, brains and durability. The line, anchored by the 242-pound Gladchuk, averages 202 pounds. Kimbrough's 223 pounds brings the backfield average up to 190.

When Harmon piled up 22 points in Michigan's final game with Ohio State, he completed an intercollegiate career that has been equalled by few players in the long history of the game.

In a year of great fullbacks, Kimbrough stood out like a beacon light. During the early part of the season, Kimbrough was used principally as a blocker and decoy although when the Aggies needed a few yards they continued to hand the ball to John and await developments.

Albert, field general for the All-America backfield, is the key man in the tricky offense Clark Shaughnessy has taught Stanford and which has had the Far West in a dither all season.

Franck earned the fourth backfield place only after stern competition from all sectors, with Bruce Smith, his Minnesota teammate among the leading challengers.

Charley O'Rourke, great passer from Boston College, and Francis Xavier Reagan of Penn were the eastern leaders.

Competition was fiercest of all for center, where Gladchuk, Boston's behemoth, won out in a sharp battle with such other pivot men as Rudy Mucha of Washington, Ray Apolskis of Marquette, Don Snavely of Columbia, Leon Gajecki of Penn State and Ray Frick of Penn.

Six feet five inches tall and weighing more than 240, Gladchuk has cat-like agility and speed seldom seen in a man his tremendous size. He has been the Eagles' first-string center ever since the second game of his sophomore year.

Gifted with a great sense of humor, he has the ability to relieve tense, younger players with his dry wit in tough situations.

Minor League Fete Merely Social Success

By LAWTON CARVER

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 7 (INS)—Bearing the conviction that the minor league meeting concluded here yesterday was the outstanding social success in the history of organized baseball, the delegates headed for Chicago and the major league sessions scheduled next week, with several player deals slated for consummation.

They were silent here regarding to whom reports but everybody got somewhat off on corrup greens, buckwheat pies cowskin' corn pone and other odds and ends with the result that business was inadvertently interrupted.

We decide to be facetious about the thing, but one of the deals that may be made at Chicago—even if it isn't announced until later—will involve the Dodgers. President Larry MacPhail is determined to win that pennant if it is possible for miracles to happen in Brooklyn, and he figures he doesn't need much more now with Kirby Higbe added to the pitcher staff in a deal announced a couple of weeks ago.

Perhaps it is significant that virtually all of the activity here was in the National League. The Detroit Tigers can't, of course, make any big deals due to the rule against an American League pennant-winning adding ay strength, but several of the others might have done something to try to overcome those Tigers. They may do it next week.

Anyway, from reports and pros and cons now current, stuff is part of the conversation and some of them tend to get excited to discuss any trades. It may not be vitally important. After all, you can't eat a pennant!

B. C. Sextet To Open At Yale Next Week

By the Associated Press

YOU MAY CLEAR the decks for the action in the New England finals of the All-America diamond belt championships at the Garden on Monday night. There will be 32 boxers battling in the eight open classes and ten sturdy fighting men exchanging blows in the five open classes.

There will be 36 bouts in the open classes and five in the novice divisions. Forty-one bouts in all, featuring the best crop of simon pure boxers ever to step into a New England ring.

Each boy won the right to compete in Monday night's show by winning in trial contests at the Arena. They will now strive for the New England titles on Monday night so that they will be eligible to compete in the Eastern finals at the Garden on Dec. 23.

Every youngster who will crawl through the ropes on Monday night is a potential champion.

There should be fast boxing and good action in the 112-pound class which will feature Edward Santon, Boston; Tony Peppi, Boston; John Griffin, Jr., Lawrence; Tommy Luckman, Brockton.

The 118-pound division will find Orlando Fanti, Lynn; Joe Landry, Gardner; Frank Martin, Plymouth, and John McKinnon, Boston, trading blows.

Francis Leonard of Taunton is the favorite to win in the 126-pound class. A year ago Leonard won the New England and All-Eastern 118-pound titles, and later made a creditable showing in the grand national finals in San Francisco. I thought Leonard was given the worst of it in the decision that put him out of the Coast final.

Leonard has packed on a few extra pounds since last Winter. He has retained all of his speed, while he is punching harder than ever.

Rivals for Leonard will be Jackie Heard, Boston; Ralph Viau, Providence, and Al Sforza.

William Daley in 135-Pound Class

William Daley of Roxbury, who went to the Coast finals in the 126-pound class as the All-Eastern champion, will be tossing leather in the 135-pound division. Daley has retained all of his amazing speed, while with the addtional weight he is stronger and is hitting harder.

Francis Welch, Lowell; Orlando Cioffi, East Boston, and Steve Bomal, Lowell, will also take part in the 135-pound class.

The 147-pound division should also be productive of action with Fred Earle, Sagamore; Willard Buckless, Saugus; Dave Andrews, Lowell and Guy Fasulo, Boston, seeking the championship.

I look for the most intense fighting of the show in the 160-pound division. Thomas Hill of Lowell and Larry Pacino of Roxbury, who fought so sensationally in a trial bout, may meet again as they have both qualified. Hill knocked Pacino out after coming up off the floor five times. Pacino later won in a tryout tournament, and he tells me he will strive to even his score with Hill Monday night.

It is possible that James Harvey, South Boston, or Sal Cesario, Boston, may draw either Hill or Pacino as an opponent in the semi-final and upset the dope.

John L. Is Tommy Sullivan's Inspiration

TOMMY SULLIVAN of South Boston, who will compete in the 175-pound class, declares the ring record of John L. Sullivan inspired him to become an All-America champion. Tommy has shown flashy boxing form and a heavy punch in this year's show. He will have as rivals Leo Bronzetti, Framingham; Manuel Baptiste, Taunton, and John Lopes, New Bedford.

The heavyweights always produce action. This year should not be an exception. The big fellows who will blaze away with kayo wallops are Howard Thompson, Saugus; Pat Devine, Cambridge; Bill Dupes, Cambridge, and Esterino Cimino, Cambridge.

Novice Boxers Have Furnished Thrills

NOVICE BOXERS have produced thrills and laughs. The finals should come up to the high mark set by the trials.

The 135-pound group will find Chris J. Christ, Mattapoiset, taking a few punches at Fred Morini, Boston.

In the 147-pound group, Irving Luce, Boston, will mingle with Clarence Kittridge, Haverhill, while in the 160-pound class it will be Jerome Covino, Boston, against Manuel Barbosa, New Bedford.

55 Cents and $1.10 for Title Show

FOLLOWERS OF the New England championships are taken from the Arena into the swanky Garden without any increase in the price scale. The committee in charge of the All-America show is holding to the regular popular price scale of 55 cents and $1.10.

There are 18,000 seats in the Garden, and as a result all who wish will be accommodated with a seat.

There are still plenty of choice seats left. They may be secured at the box offices at the Garden and at the Arena.

By WALTER KILEY

Forty-two of the scrappiest young gladiators who ever stepped into a simon-pure ring will travel down the glory road next Monday night at Boston Garden. They will be the fighting principals in the New England All-America amateur boxing championships.

Every one of these ambitious fledglings fought his way into the title spot, victors over formidable opposition in a series of four qualifying shows at Boston Arena.

There will be 29 bouts Monday, 24 in the open division, with semi-finals and finals in each of the eight championship classes, and five finals in as many novice divisions.

EASTERN DEC. 23

The Boston American-Record . . d the Irish-American A. A., sponsors of the All-Americas, offer this show at the low prices of 55 cents and $1.10—no seats higher.

Reservations can be made at either the Boston Garden, CAPitol 3200, or the Boston Arena, COMmonwealth 2040.

Winners of the New England open titles will qualify for the New England team which will meet similar champions from New York city, Albany and Baltimore in the Eastern All-America championships at Garden on Monday, Dec. 23.

Those Eastern winners, in turn, will qualify to battle it out with similar sectional champions of the Far West, Mid-West and South in the National All-America Grand Finals to be held at Boston Garden on Jan. 27.

Earlier this week mention was made of several classes to be decided. Today we make mention of the 147 and 175-pound divisions.

EARLE BEAT CHAMPION

In the 147-pound contention will be found Fred Earle, Jr., 20-year-old canal worker from Sagamore, whose greatest triumph was a decision over Jimmy Mulligan, 1940 New England champion at the weight; Willard Buckless, 20-year-old Saugus clerk, who has been boxing only a year but has come to be one of the most feared boys in his class; Dave "Golden Boy" Andrews of Lowell, a 19-year-old laborer and 1940 New England junior champion and one of the most spectacular performers in the All-America tryouts at the Arena; and Guy Fasulo, 22-year-old North Ender who looked impressive last Monday night.

Tommy Sullivan, 20-year-old South Boston Fish Pier packer, is being favored in some quarters to lift the light heavyweight title.

FINAL WORD—Irving "Red" Luce, crack novice welterweight, gets polishing lesson from the old master, Al Delmont, former N. E. bantamweight king. "Red" will box Monday in N. E. All-America finals at the Garden.

18,000 Seats 55c and $1.10

The New England finals of the All-America diamond belt championships at the Garden on Monday night are being offered at popular prices of 55 cents and $1.10.

There are 18,000 seats in the Garden, and so there will be ample space for all who wish to see the show.

You may obtain reservations at the Garden and Arena box-offices.

Trojans, Irish Top 7-Game Gridiron Slate

By International News Service

Although most of the mythical All-America football teams have been selected and all but one of the major "Bowl" teams picked, 14 collegiate gridiron machines continue the regular season today in seven games scattered all the way from Charleston, S. C., to Honolulu, Hawaii.

The biggest battle of the day from the standpoint of tradition and spectator interest will be the 15th annual renewal of football activities between the fighting Irish from Notre Dame and the Trojans of Southern California.

A crowd of 80,000 is expected to witness the struggle, in which USC is rated a 3 to 5 favorite.

The Rice-Southern Methodist game in the Southwest attracted nationwide attention mainly because the winner may be selected as the Southern representative to oppose Fordham in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Although usually reliable sources report that the Texas Aggies will receive the Bowl bid, the Cotton Bowl authorities have announced that an opponent will not be named until after the SMU-Rice tussle.

Texas, surprise victors over the Aggies on Thanksgiving Day, travel to Florida for the last game of the season for both schools.

Villanova will try to climax a comparatively poor year with a win over Auburn, but odds-makers favor the southerners.

Texas Tech tackles San Francisco in the shadow of the Golden Gate; the Citadel battles South Carolina just for fun and, in case you are interested, San Diego is out in the land of slim native girls and pineapples to play Honolulu.

$100,000 Playoff

Redskins Duel Bears

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Carl Storck, president of the National Football League, announced today that the gross receipts for tomorrow's championship game between Washington and Chicago would be the highest in the history of the professionals' playoff system.

"The total receipts," he said, "should go well over $100,000. We've gone a long way in a short time, I think. Why, I remember when I played a whole season of pro football for $17.50, including the playoff."

Storck, one of the first of the pros, predicted the time is not far off when the championship will gross a quarter million dollars.

The Washington-Chicago game was a complete sell-out last week a few hours after the public ticket sale started. Most of the pasteboards had gone earlier to regular season ticket holders.

RAIN DUE TONIGHT

The weatherman predicted fair skies and chilly temperatures for the meeting of the hard-charging Bears and the pass-flipping Redskins, although he said rain would fall tonight.

A canvas has been spread over the playing field and rain should not alter conditions.

The Bears were still odds-on favorites despite the 7 to 3 licking the Redskins gave them three weeks ago.

"That suits me fine," said Ray Flaherty, Washington coach. "I believe that's just what the boys want to hear—just enough to make them give us one of their best games of the year."

Washington has practiced out of doors every day this week, while the Bears were kept inside by severe weather in Chicago until yesterday. Today they had Griffith Stadium for the afternoon.

FLAHERTY ANGRY

Flaherty was slightly irked because his secret practises have been anything but secret.

"We've locked the gates and called the cops," he complained, "yet every time I look up I see someone I know from Chicago standings on the sidelines."

Flaherty has spent a great deal of time this week on new offensive plays—featuring Slinging 'Sammy Baugh, the League's best passer, and Dodgin' Dick Todd, one of the loop's best ground gainers.

The bears likewise were reported to be perfecting all kinds of hocus pocus to use against the Redskins. They've even called in Clark Shaughnessy, coach of Stanford's Rose Bowl team, as a consultant.

Followin the playoff, Washington will be the scene of a two-day National League meeting, the feature of which will be the annual draft of college senior players.

Taylor Triple Gives Him 258; Dew Has 266

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—P. H. Faulconer's speedy Roman Boy captured the featured 4½-furlong sprint at Charles Town race track and Jockey Walter Lee Taylor scored a riding "triple" as warmer weather brought out the best crowd of the meeting, some 5000 fans.

Piloted by Willie Kelly, Roman Boy ran out at the head of the stretch in the featured John Davis purse, but still had enough left to win by 2¼ lengths in the fast time of :49 3-5, just a fraction off the track record. With the favorite J. Brandner's O'Play, running second, Roman Boy returned $7.60 at the mutuel windows. A. Bronzo's Ski Patrol lasted for show.

Taylor scored aboard Callao in the third race, Ace of Trumps in the fourth and Gloucher's Boy in the seventh, bringing his total victories for the year to 258 on an unofficial count. He is running second to Earl Dew, now campaigning at Bay Meadows, in the race for the year's jockey honors.

Father-to-be Godoy Sails for Chile Home

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (INS)—Arturo Godoy, the South American heavyweight who in April will fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight title for the third time, has sailed with his wife so that their expected child will be born in their home in Chile.

Chet Gladchuk, B.C., All-America Center

By HERB BARKER
Associated Press Sports Editor

Boasting the greatest concentration of football talent in its history, the Middle West dominates the 16th annual All-America team, selected today by the Associated Press on the basis of a nation-wide survey of expert opinion.

Led by the powerful Western Conference where Minnesota, Michigan and Northwestern set a rapid pace, the Midwest places three men on the first team and 10 men, all told, on the All-America squad of 33, divided among first, second and third teams.

Trailing the Midlands are the South and East, with seven players each on the full squad; the Southwest and Far West with four each, and the Rocky Mountain sector with one.

Completing another season of spectacular play, four members of the 1939 All-America ensemble are selected again — Tom Harmon, Michigan's sensational halfback; John Kimbrough, gunshing fullback of the Texas Aggies; Nick Drahos, Cornell's great tackle, and Paul Severin, North Carolina end.

Of these, all except Albert and Reinhard are seniors.

Selection of Elrod and Gladchuk give Mississippi State and Boston College All-American representation for the first time since the Associated Press began its selections in 1925.

As chosen, the All-American team has all the necessary qualifications of speed, skill, brains and durability. The line, anchored by the 242-pound Gladchuk, averages 202 pounds. Kimbrough's 222 pounds brings the backfield average up to 190.

When Harmon piled up 22 points in Michigan's final game with Ohio State, he completed an intercollegiate career that has been equalled by few players in the long history of the game.

In a year of great fullbacks, Kimbrough stood out like a beacon light. During the early part of the season, Kimbrough was used principally as a blocker and decoy although when the Aggies needed a few yards they continued to hand the ball to John and await developments.

Albert, field general for the All-America backfield, is the key man in the tricky offense Clark Shaughnessy has taught Stanford and which has had the Far West in a dither all season.

Franck earned the fourth backfield place only after stern competition from all sectors, with Bruce Smith, his Minnesota teammate among the leading challengers.

Charley O'Rourke, great passer from Boston College, and Francis Xavier Reagan of Penn were the eastern leaders.

Competition was fiercest of all for center, where Gladchuk, Boston's behemoth, won out in a sharp battle with such other pivot men as Rudy Mucha of Washington, Ray Apolskis of Marquette, Don Snavely of Columbia, Leon Gajecki of Penn State and Ray Frick of Penn.

Six feet five inches tall and weighing more than 240, Gladchuk has cat-like agility and speed seldom seen in a man his tremendous size. He has been the Eagles' first-string center ever since the second game of his sophomore year.

Gifted with a great sense of humor, he has the ability to relieve tense, younger players with his dry wit in tough situations.

Minor League Fete Merely Social Success

By LAWTON CARVER

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 7 (INS)—Bearing the conviction that the minor league meeting concluded here yesterday was the outstanding social success in the history of organized baseball, the delegates headed for Chicago and the major league sessions scheduled next week with several player deals slated for consummation.

They were started here according to reliable reports by everybody and everything off on the right foot, with the exception of Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who was indisposed with the result that business was inadvertently interrupted.

We dissent to be superstitious about the thing, but one of the deals that may be made at Chicago—even if it isn't announced until later—will involve the Dodgers. President Larry MacPhail is determined to win that pennant if it is possible for human to happen in Brooklyn and he figures he doesn't need much more now with Kirby Higbe added to the pitcher staff in a deal announced a couple of weeks ago.

Perhaps it is significant that virtually all of the activity here was in the National League. The Detroit Tigers can't afford to make any big deals due to the rule against an American League pennant winner adding to strength, but several of the others might have done something to try to overcome their leads. They may do it next week.

Anyway, those clubs that are loaded with big bats are eager to get some of them traded to pitching clubs, and those with pitching to burn are eager to get some batting in return. After all, you can't eat a pennant.

INDIANS MAY SWAP PYTLAK

CLEVELAND, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians are "willing" to trade Catcher Frankie Pytlak to the St. Louis Browns for a heavy-hitting outfielder, says C. C. Slapnicka, vice-president of the Tribe.

Slapnicka indicated this after William O. Dewitt, Browns' vice-president, declared at St. Louis his club would make an effort to acquire an experienced catcher and mentioned Pytlak as a possible choice.

"We aren't interested in trading Pytlak," Slapnicka said, "but the Indians need an experienced outfielder, and we are willing to let him go providing we get a player who will make the Indians a serious pennant contender."

"The Indians hope to swing a deal for an outfielder at the Chicago meeting, but we won't weaken any other department to bolster the outfield," Slapnicka added. "We are willing to trade several players, but only on the condition the deal strengthens the teams."

AAU BANS EVENTS IN GERMANY

DENVER, Dec. 7 (AP)—The executive committee of the national A. A. U. reported early today it had decided to recommend to the convention that no amateur athlete be permitted to compete in Germany.

The recommendation was understood to have been prompted by the announcement of Roy E. Davis of Chicago, chairman of the boxing committee, that the United States had been invited to send a team to a "world boxing championships" in Berlin in 1942.

The executive committee included no time limit in its recommendation.

Harvard Rifle Team Enters Hearst Shoot

Harvard University's rifle team will take its place on the firing line during the William Randolph Hearst Citizens' Marksmanship Competition.

The Crimson team, one of the best in collegiate ranks, was officially entered in the Hearst Citizens' Shoot by Lawrence K. Shoul, team secretary, whose address is Lowell House E-43, Cambridge.

The Harvard forces will compete in the senior ranks and will shortly be placed as a member of a league specially formed for the purpose of the Hearst matches.

Among other late entries was that of the Framingham Sportsman's Association, Inc., entered by Philip Sanborn, captain of the rifle team, who has been placed in charge of the club's rifle activities. The Framingham team will likewise be officially made a member of a special league for the Hearst Shoot.

A new entry for the William Randolph Hearst Junior Rifle Trophy Competition was forthcoming today from Scout Troup No. 56 of Swampscott. It was filed by Scoutmaster Daniel J. Johnson who tells us that the troup has just organized a rifle club and has submitted its charter to the N. R. A.

Scoutmaster Johnson mentions that they have a 50-foot indoor range in the basement of their meeting place and while none of the boys has enjoyed previous rifle shooting experience, he says they are all excited about the prospects and feel certain that under expert instruction they will be ready to offer serious competition when the Hearst Junior Shoot gets underway in March.

Ex-Rutgers Trainer Dies

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Dec. 7 (AB)—Jacob "Doc" Besas, 64, chief trainer of Rutgers University athletic teams from 1913 to 1930, died in St. Peter's Hospital today of internal complications.

He was confined there after collapsing on as treet last Wednesday, Dec. 4.

Besas, a native of New Haven, Ct., came to Rutgers with the late George Foster Sanford, football coach for Scarlet elevens from 1913-23. He retired officially in 1930 after undergoing the amputation of both legs because of an infection, but maintained a keen interest in Rutgers athletics.

Uclan Grid Team Biggest Bust of 1940

To the Pacific Coast Conference goes the credit—and the blame—for some of the biggest surprises of the 1940 football season, according to the Associated Press.

Stanford's Indians, who literally came from nowhere to win the Rose Bowl nomination, biggest prize of Far Western football, easily took the season's honors as the most improved team of 1940. And the University of California at Los Angeles stood high on the list of the year's biggest "busts," tabulated in the annual Associated Press survey.

Ohio State was rated as the season's greatest disappointment, however, leading the Uclans in that respect mainly because Ohio State had a bigger pre-season "build up."

No team could match Stanford's record, but notable for their unexpectedly successful seasons were Rice, which also started under a new coaching regime with Jess Neely at the helm; Utah, winner of the Big Seven despite the loss of six regulars, Pennsylvania, Navy, Iowa State, Wisconsin, Florida, William and Mary and Mississippi State.

The teams that failed to produce after getting big build-ups were even more prominent. Among them were Notre Dame, hailed at the start of the season as the best Irish outfit since Knute Rockne's day; Indiana, Marquette, Duke, Georgia Tech, Tulane, Arkansas, Texas Christian, Colorado, Syracuse, Princeton and Cornell.

Official All Team Picked by Coaches

(Pictorial Review of "All" Eleven on Page 26)

By MIKE GILLOOLY

When eight schoolboy coaches debate for almost seven hours in an attempt to pick eleven football players, you may be well satisfied that their selections represent the cream of the scholastic crop.

That is just what the coaches did in selecting the Boston Evening American-Daily Record All-Scholastic Football eleven—the official, greater Boston team which is presented here today.

The All Scholastic Board which picks this team includes eight of schoolboys' most prominent coaches—Jim Mansfield, Haverhill, Bill Broderick, Salem, Fred Ostergren, Arlington, George Kenneally, Revere, Dennie Gildea, Everett, Harry Downes, Brookline, Ed "Skip" Sherlock, Hyde Park, and Bill Ohrenberger, Boston English.

An exclusive list of honorable mentions accompanies the team. It includes only the boys who figured well up in the balloting.

PARKER BATES, WEYMOUTH, AND LEWIS SURMAN, PEABODY, ENDS—Both boys were important cogs in their respective team's success as the past season records show. Bates concluded two years as regular end on a team that went through the season this year undefeated and untied in nine games played. From his end post, Parker was one of the leading scorers of his team. Last year, he led his mates in points scored.

ED NIXON, BROOKLINE, and JOSEPH SUCHAREWICZ, LYNN CLASS TACKLES—Any college coach would welcome either of these boys.

Nixon, the bigger of the two, tipping the scales at 190 pounds, captained Brookline this past year, climaxing three full years as regular tackle.

TILO MARGARITA, MEDFORD, AND TEDDY MORZ, SALEM, GUARDS—Tilo follows the footsteps of his brother Henry, who was picked three years ago . . . Has been a regular for three years . . . Standout each year but his play this season has been overlooked because he played on a losing ball team . . . Morz' story is similar to Margarita's . . . Nothing much has been said of this Polish lad, who tips the scales at 164, but the opposing teams know what he is capable of doing.

HAROLD BESTON, QUINCY CENTER—Most schoolboy followers will take this selection as a complete surprise, but not so with the players he played against and the coaches as well . . . Has held down the center spot for the Granite City eleven for the past three seasons and last year missed but a minute throughout the entire schedule.

VIC FINOS, EVERETT; JIM WATERS, MARBLEHEAD; PAUL BRADBURY, BRIGHTON, and TOM BRENNAN, BOSTON ENGLISH, BACKS—An unbeatable quartet and individual performers . . . Standouts for their respective schools . . . Each has led his team through great seasons. Finos masterbrained and passed the Red Wave to the eastern Mass. state title . . . Was overshadowed by the play of his teammate DeRosa most of the time in the headlines, but Vic was the unheard hero . . . The success of a team on the field depends on the smartness in handling the team by the quarterback and Everett's record shows it . . . Was regular for three years . . . Waters, known as "Soapy," was a unanimous choice . . . He could rightly be termed the workhorse of the Marblehead team . . . his consistency marks him one of the best in Greater Boston ranks . . . Bradbury was the spearhead of the Brighton eleven which closed its second straight season undefeated . . . Passes, runs and placekicks with the best of them . . . Of the 85 points his team scored, he figured in all but nine . . . The only reason for this was, he was on the bench when a touchdown was made and the other was a safety . . . Brennan, also ranks with Bradbury . . . Possesses almost the same qualities as Paul only Tom punts instead of placekicks . . . Has been the best line plunger in the Boston ranks.

'ALL' BOARD

The board of schoolboy coaches which co-operated with Mike Gillooly and Sam Brogna, Boston Record-American schoolboy editors, in selecting the 1940 All-Scholastic football team, a team which is recognized as THE official mythical schoolboy eleven, follows:

Bill Ohrenberger, Boston English.
Jim Mansfield, Haverhill.
Bill Broderick, Salem.
Fred Ostergren, Arlington.
Ed "Skip" Sherlock, Hyde Park.
Harry Downes, Brookline.
George Kenneally, Revere.
Dennis Gildea, Everett.

Tordiglione Faces Cabral On Louis Card

Bill Tordiglione, North End prospect, will meet Fred Cabral, Cambridge, in one of the attractive preliminaries arranged on the supporting card for the Joe Louis-Al McCoy heavyweight championship fight a week from Monday night at the Boston Garden.

Rip Valenti, matchmaker, of the Goodwin A. C., has lined up five six-rounders to furnish fireworks before the Brown Bomber moves into the ring for his 12th title defense against McCoy in Boston's biggest fisticuffing carnival since the good old days.

The preliminary program, all sixes:

Billy Tordiglione, North End vs. Fred Cabral, Cambridge.

Bill Weinberg, Chelsea vs. Tony Ferry, Fall River.

Al Dutra, Cambridge, vs. Nick Sullo, East Boston.

Harold Harris, Malden, vs. Frank Topazio, Bristol, R. I.

Weinberg and Ferry are hard-hitting heavyweights. Harris was a star in the amateurs last season. All except Holman Williams are familiar figures hereabouts.

Louis today concludes a busy week at Buckley's gym. He feels he's fit and that he'll knock out McCoy.

McCoy himself is certain he can go the distance.

It is expected that the Bomber will give himself a day off tomorrow, except for a brief early morning trot about the roads at his training quarters at Green Acres, Saxonville.

Procita Leaves On Cue Tour

Joe Procita of Boston, who has entertained pocket billiard fans at Shanley's recreation rooms the past couple of days against Andrew Ponzi and Erwin Rudolph, will leave Boston tomorrow, and during the next week is scheduled to play in New York, Syracuse, Scranton and Philadelphia.

Upon his return, one week from today, he will meet Jimmy Caras, several times world champion, who will be making his first Boston appearance in league competition.

CITY MAY PLOW GRID FOR EAGLES' DRILLS

By BILL GRIMES

For a week Coach Frank W. Leahy has played in the "Rubber Chicken League" with his Eagles and, fully appreciating the devastating after effects of such a schedule, he will not be too hard on the B. C. gridsters when they renew practice on Monday.

From a physical viewpoint, the Eagles have gone back immeasurably since the Holy Cross game.

They were allowed to break training after beating the Crusaders in the wind-up game of the second perfect season ever enjoyed by a Boston College eleven, and, because they are to play in the Sugar Bowl against the Tennessee Vols on New Year's Day in New Orleans, they have been in great demand at banquets, smokers and church festivals.

It amounted to practically an off night when they had only two engagements. In fact, the demand for their appearance became so unreasonable that Leahy put in a stop order a couple of days ago.

Naturally Leahy would prefer to work his charges out of doors next week but due to the deep layer of snow on Alumni Field, it looks as though they will hold their practise sessions at the Working Boys Home gym.

MAYOR B. C. ROOTER

In the event the weatherman doesn't summon any more snow storms, the Boston College student body is willing and anxious to clean Alumni Field if Leahy gives the nod.

The B. C. students are justly proud of their 1940 eleven, and would like nothing better than to do something which might contribute toward a victory over Tennessee.

Mayor Maurice J. Tobin, who has been lauding B. C. at every opportunity, is in a position to supply the necessary equipment for the removal of the snow and would jump at a chance to do his bit for the Eagles.

Under Leahy, the Eagles have done some valuable promotional work for the City of Boston and the City of Newton. Now the time is most opportune for Bostonians and Newtonites to render every possible assistance to Boston College.

The Eagles cannot expect to beat the most powerful and smoothest functioning of all Tennessee squads unless they practice in the open.

Unfortunately, the Tufts College baseball cage is not available.

Through the generousity of Prof. C. J. "Pop" Houston, the Eagles worked at the Jumbo's gymnasium for two days last week, while tuneing for Holy Cross.

But the Tufts track and field candidates are practicing daily and the baseball cage is dotted with pits for the high and broad jumpers and the pole vaulters.

With the exception of Gene Goodreault, their All-America end, the Eagles will be free from any serious injuries when they report to Coach Leahy Monday afternoon.

GOODREAULT LIMPS

Goodreault still walks with a slight limp, but he says he'll be ready for contact work within 10 days and believes he'll be able to go 60 minutes against the Vols in the Sugar Bowl.

Realizing it's going to require the best defensive eleven he can field to stop powerful Tennessee, Leahy is particularly anxious to have Goodreault ready. So Gene will be nursed along slowly, and the chances are that he will not be scrimmaged (if B. C. is able to hold that type of practice here at home) until the squad reaches Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Leahy has been studying scout reports he's received on Tennessee, and will devote considerable time this coming week to the style of play which has brought the Vols through three perfect seasons.

That the Eagles will be all eyes and ears during blackboard lectures, there's no doubt, for each and every member of the squad, from the most prominently-mentioned for All-America honors down to "Bull" Dempsey, is determined to wind up the season with a victory in the Sugar Bowl.

Behind Goal Posts

This being the season of the annual flood of "All" teams we're sticking our chin way out to here and selecting the "10 Most Colorful Players of All Time" . . . two are redheads, Red Cagle of West Point and Red Grange of Illinois . . . two are fighting Irish sons of Eli Yale, ends Frank Hinkey of the '90's and Larry Kelley, cocky opportunist of the '30's . . . two are Dartmouth immortals, quarterback Eddie Dooley, the unpredictable, and center Mutt Ray, who, with sleeves rolled up, lacked only the corn cob to make him the perfect Pop-Eye . . another Eli, triple threat half-pint Albie Booth, and Cornell fullback Eddie Kaw, the Cayuga Catamount who sparked those Dobie steamrollers of the early '20's . . . the nonpareil Indian Jim Thorpe of Carlisle and Knute Rockne's famed protege at Notre Dame, George Gipp. Salute!

Snow Train Tomorrow

By the Associated Press

Snow conditions that generally are not expected before January today greeted week-end winter sports fans at many of northern New England's winter play resorts.

Depths ranged from 46 inches on the summit of Mt. Mansfield in Stowe, Vt., to 10 inches at Intervale, N. H. More snow was expected in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont today.

The Boston & Maine railroad will run its first "Snow Train" of the season tomorrow from Boston to the eastern slopes region.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 (AP)—One United States rink came through in the first round of the Seigniory Club's international bonspiel today with the Brookline, Mass., quartet, skipped by R. P. Hollowell, defeated J. G. Parker's Schenectady, N. Y., rink, 10-8.

A Royal Montreal Rink, skipped by Lemuel Cushing, defeated Ben James Williams' four from Brookline, 12-10. Another Brookline rink, skipped by Lucius Hill, lost to H. H. Pooler's Toronto Granite Club 14-4 and a four from Utica, N. Y., skipped by Dr. J. Farrell, was beaten 12-11 by J. H. Norris' Home Club Rink.

SPORTS MIRROR

TODAY A YEAR AGO—American League voted to end precedent that championship manager should handle the league's team in annual all-star game and named Joe Cronin, Boston Red Sox, to manage 1940 all-star team.

THREE YEARS AGO—Clint Frank of Yale, All-America back, received Heisman Trophy, awarded to most valuable football player of the year.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Southern Methodist, Rose Bowl choice, easily beat Texas A. and B., 24-0, for 12th straight victory.

Tufts Co-Captain

Art Harrison and Bob Rutter both backs, have been elected co-captains of the Tufts varsity football team for next season.

Puts Chill On Coast Grid Tieup

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Faculty representatives of the Western Conference voted unanimously today to adhere to the present rule prohibiting all post-season football games. The rule applies to both charity and Rose Bowl games.

Ten representatives, each representing one of the big ten schools, were present. The representative of the University of Chicago, which abolished the grid sport a year ago, did not participate.

The meeting was described by the new secretary of the faculty committee, Prof. F. E. Richart, of the University of Illinois, as "one of the most peaceful in years."

He said there had been "very little discussion" of the proposal for the Western Conference to join hands with the Pacific Coast Conference in making the annual Rose bowl game a closed affair between the two collegiate circuits.

He indicated that the stand against the project already taken by some of the schools had prompted those in favor of authorizing post-season competition to acknowledge that the proposal could not win approval and thus the proponents made unanimous the vote to continue the ban.

75,000 See Irish Battle Trojans

COLISEUM, Los Angeles, Dec. 7—With the temperature around 80 degrees and before upwards of 75,000 fans, the Irish of Notre Dame and the Trojans of Southern California took the field for the 15th time in their grid seriesc today.

The Irish were 3-to-5 favorites, due to the influenza epidemic in the state and which laid more than a dozen Trojan players low for the first two days of this week.

GREG RICE
Sullivan Award Candidate

A.A.U. OK'S FIVE FOR BIG AWARD

DENVER, Dec. 7 (AP)—The National A. A. U. approved today the names of five athletes as candidates for the James E. Sullivan memorial award, given annually to the nation's outstanding amateur athlete.

The award will be decided by the votes of approximately 600 sports writers and athletic leaders throughout the country and the winner will be announced in January.

Candidates are: Fred Wolcott, Rice hurdler; Cornelius Warmerdam, San Francisco Olympic Club pole vaulter; Gregory Rice, former Notre Dame distance runner from Missoula, Mont.; Al Patik, champion diver formerly of Ohio State and oJe Plateb of Chicago, six-times national handball champion.

The A. A. U. board of governors also ratified a proposal that the procedure of selecting candidates for the Sullivan award be revised. Starting next year each of the 41 district associations will select its outstanding amateur athlete.

A national committee then will select the winner from these 41 aspirants, and this selection must then be approved by the board of governors.

Texas Leads Florida 13-0 On Passes

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—A high-scoring battle was in prospect today as the Longhorns of Texas and the 'Gotors of Florida met here in the season's final football game for both.

The Texans, decided favorites, had lost only two games this season, to Rice and Southern Methodist up to today and in their last tilt upset Texas A. & M. in one of the year's biggest gridiron surprises.

Florida's season already had been guaranteed a success by triumphs over Georgia Tech and Georgia, traditional rivals.

Starting lineups were:

TEXAS	FLORIDA
Flanagan, le	le, Ferguson
Williams, lt	Hull
Dawson, lg	Konetsky
Goodwin, c	c, Bucha
Daniel, rg	rg, Battista
Maudlin, rt	rt, Lane

Doss, rh	rh, F. Mitchell
Layden, fb	fb, Tate

Officials: Referee, Viner, Missouri. Umpire — Sholar, Presbyterian. Head linesman—Dyer, Rice. Field judge—Bagley, Washington and Lee.

FIRST PERIOD

An interception by Forest Ferguson bited the first Texas drive, but a short kick soon gave the Longhorns the ball on the Gator 39.

Pete Layden pounded through to the five two bucks lost, but Layden passed to Flanagan, who lateraled to Jack Crain for the touchdown. Layden kicked the point-after and Texas held its 7-0 lead at the end of the period.

Score, end first: Texas 7, Florida 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Texas' Reserves took over with a scoring drive starting from the Longhorn 23. R. L. Harkins and Walter Heap alternated in rushing it to the Florida 33 and Heap threw a long one to end Jack Steele for a touchdown. Johnny Gill's kick missed and Texas led, 13-0. Florida checked two more mild threats before the half ended with the count still 13-0.

Score at half: Texas 13, Florida 0.

Wooden Bleachers Collapse, 7 Hurt

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Dec. 7 (AP)—A wooden bleachers stand, hold 250 spectators at a Rutgers University swimming carnival cracked under the strain, causing injuries to five men and two women and upsetting the program for five minutes.

Seven rows of seats settled gradually to the floor after the "risers" supporting them gave way.
